PP&L Offers Scholarships

Pennsylvania Power and Light Company will offer 15 scholarships under two separate programs to young men and women whose parents are PP&L customers, it is announced by Chas. E. Oakes, PP&L's board chairman and chief executive officer.

In announcing the scholarships, Oakes emphasized that today, more than ever, the nation needs college-trained young people for the thought, creativity and evaluation so vital to building a continually better society. PP&L offers scholarships under its broad program of aid to higher education, recognizing that the cost is often a substantial deterrent to many qualified young people who seek a college education.

The utility's most extensive program — the Independent College Scholarship Program — provides 10 scholarships of $700 a year for study at any of 15 independent colleges and universities in the Company's service area. Under the other program—the State College Scholarship Program — PP&L offers five scholarships of $250 annually for study at any of four state colleges in the Company's service area — Bloomsburg, East Stroudsburg, Lock Haven and Millersville. The principal objective of this program is to help to meet the ever-growing need for highly qualified teachers.

Competition under these programs is open only to members of the current year's senior class. Eligibility for scholarships is conditional upon scholastic achievement, graduation from an accredited high school or its equivalent, and financial need.

Under both programs, PP & L does not participate in the determination of scholarship winners. An independent Scholarship Awards Committee chooses the winners, who are then notified by the Company.

Materials explaining the PP&L scholarship program are available at any high school in Central Eastern Pennsylvania. A brochure outlining the programs in detail can be obtained either from high school principals or guidance counselors, or by contacting the nearest PP&L office.

Since 1947, PP&L has been able to assist a total of 150 deserving young people in their search for a higher education in their chosen fields.
