

CONTINENTAL DANCE ARTISTS

THE BEATTYS. Molly and Colin Beatty, the toast of European show audiences, are two Continental stars with Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies. The Beattys have a vastly different routine than offered by any other pair in America. Their routine is outstanding. The Ice Follies, the Show of Champions, all new and different, at the Hershey Sports Arena, November 26th thru 30th.

Two comedy teams that have convulsed Ice Follies audiences for many seasons are back for another try at it now that the big show's 28th edition opened a limited, 5-day engagement at Hershey Sports Arena Tuesday, Nov. 26. They are the Beattys and Scarecrows.

Colin and Molly Beatty, a couple of dancing pranksters from England have developed a new routine designed to make their audiences guess what is rehearsed in their act and what is not. Their comedy style, demanding absolutely timing and coordination, is one of the most original on the ice today. Beatty is also a member of the Scarecrows, slapstick comedy experts who have one of the fastest-moving routines in the business. Colin's partners are Bill Jack, from Paisley, Scotland, and a 12-year veteran of Ice Follies and Bob LeDuc, former Canadian hockey player who joined the show in 1949. The helter-skelter pace of the Scarecrows requires the entire ice surface - and sometimes a portion of the off-ice area. They'll be seen as Bunkhouse Buckaroos in a hilarious western skit.

Also returning to augment the Ice Follies comedy corps will be Doug Sears and Dick Cooper, impersonators of the huge animal, Hillbilly Hound; the Kermond Brothers, Australian acrobatic comics; and Mr. Frick, 25-year veteran who is rapidly approaching his 10,000th performance.

Ten big and costly productions, including one just for the kiddies, are featured in Ice Follies of 1964, plus a host of world, national and regional skating champions from all parts of the globe. Eight performances are scheduled, including nightly shows at 8:10 o'clock, a 3 p.m. matinee on Thanksgiving Day and matinees on Saturday, November 30 at 1 and 5 p.m. The final performance Saturday night will start at 9 o'clock.

School Board Considers Land Purchase and Sale

Both purchase and sale of land was discussed by the Donegal Union school board Thursday night, Nov. 21, as the group held its November meeting in the library of Donegal high school.

The board authorized the taking of an option on two parcels of land situated immediately west of the Grandview school and took steps to plan sale of a small piece of property immediate north of the Washington school.

Because the proposed, new addition to Grandview will use some of the land now owned, it was deemed wise to expand the school holdings.

The land in question is owned by Howard Bernhard and Henry Wolgemuth and can be purchased for approximately $500, it was revealed.

The tracts are immediately west of the present school property, extending westward to an alley and from Hill street to the south side of Water street.

The land at one time was used as a fishing pond and was improved by the Sportsmen's association but more recently the water was drained away.

Acquisition of the land will solve some of the problems of a hard-surface walkway between the school and the Florin area. Plans for such a walk are part of the plan for the school addition.

The proposed land sale concerns a strip north of Washington school and laying along Angle street. It has been farmed by Elam Heisey. Originally the land was purchased by the school when there was thought that an addition would be built to the building.

In other business the board set December 12 as the date for its annual reorganization meeting. It will follow an annual dinner at which retiring members are honored.

Installation of additional shelving in the Annex for storage of students' books during lunch periods was authorized.

Permission was granted the Lancaster County Tax Collection Bureau to prosecute persons who have failed to file earned income tax reports.

The name of Frank Walter, south Market street, was placed in nomination to fill a place on the Donegal School Authority.

He would fill the place now held by Harold Krall, whose term expires January 1, 1964.

Walter, who has been a member of the Mount Joy and Donegal school boards for many years is retiring as of the first Monday in December, which is the end of his term. However, he has not made a decision whether to accept or decline the Authority nomination.
