Prayer Of The Week - - -

The prayer this week is by Queen Anne of England:

"Almighty and Eternal God, the Disposer of all the affairs in the world, there is not one circumstance so great as not to be subject to Thy power, nor so small but it comes within Thy care; Thy goodness and wisdom show themselves through all Thy works, and Thy loving kindness and mercy appear in the several dispensations of Thy Providence. May we readily submit ourselves to Thy pleasure and sincerely resign our wills to Thine, with all patience, meekness, and humility; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Loafing Stalls Advantageous

Loafing stalls (sometimes called "free stalls") offer many advantages to the dairyman who uses a loose housing system.

A loafing stall is simply a three-side, open-end stall which a cow can freely enter. Cows seem to prefer this relative isolation to rest and to chew their cud.

However, it isn't the cow's preference alone that makes loafing stalls desirable. They afford a number of bonuses, such as:

1. Saving on bedding material—from 50-75 per cent over bedding required in a conventional loafing system.
2. Space requirements per cow are actually reduced — 30 sq. ft. per cow in stalls plus area in paved alleys.
3. Less labor is required to clean stalls and paved alleys.
4. Teat and udder injuries can't step on those lying down.

The stalls are generally 7½x4 ft. in size. Curbs, 8 to 10 in. high, are placed across the open end of the stalls. Concrete alleys should be 10 ft. wide to permit tractors, loading equipment and manure wagons.

stalls may be installed in existing loafing sheds. However, in areas where winters are severe, the buildings should be draft-free.

"If a cause appeals to you, send a contribution directly. You'll get a tax deduction and the cause will receive more dollars."
