

Long Ago
DIAMONDS

Long ago, in an ancient Middle Eastern country, there lived a man named Ali Hafed. He was possessed of a fine house, vast fields and fat livestock.

Even so, he was not content. He had heard of the stones called diamonds and that one large stone would be worth more than all his property.

So obsessed was he by the thought of the luxury and power that could be his, he sold all of his possessions, using the money to travel to the far ends of the earth in search of the glittering stones.

Years passed. His money was gone. His youth had faded. His health had failed. He had found not one diamond.

One day, ragged beyond description and desperate beyond hope, he walked into the sea and drowned.

On that very day the man, who had purchased the lands of Ali Hafed, was drinking from a stream which traversed his property. The sunlight neath the water. He had discovered a diamond. His property became the richest diamond mine the world has ever known.

In what had once been the back yard of Ali Hafed,

diamonds."

Snow was a contributory factor in 23,852 traffic accidents that took place in 1962. Last year a total of 161,557 accidents took place on Pennsylvania highways.

Icy roadways were recorded in 21,813 of the 161,557 traffic accidents that were reported in 1962.
