SHORT COURSES POPULAR

More than 16,000 men and women have enrolled in agricultural short courses at the Penn State University since the courses were first offered in 1891.

Wait Awhile—Don't let a few warm days push you into the garden while the soil is too wet to work, warns Lynn Smith, Penn State University extension floriculturist. Working wet soil puddles it and when dried out, it stays hard all summer.

Also, you'll do well to omit rich gravies, sauces, and bread stuffings from meals until everyone returns to his desirable weight. As the final touch to a low-calorie meal serve fresh fruit for dessert.

Exotic House Plants

If you're looking for some exotic tropical-looking plants, here are some ideas that you might like to try.

Citrus trees, such as oranges, grapefruit, lemons and limes can be grown from seeds. Just plant them in a pot of rich soil and keep it slightly damp. The more sun the seedlings get the glossier the dark-green leaves will be. Avocados will also grow into beautiful large-leaved plants. After the fruit is eaten start the seed. Soak it to remove the outer shell. Then put it in a pot of soil or suspend it in a glass of water. It makes no difference which way is "up". The spout comes from the pointed end. Don't get impatient, it may take as long as two months before the sprout appears.

Another exotic plant is the pineapple, which has attractive modern style foliage. So, when you cut up a pineapple, save the top. To insure fast rooting, remove some of the core of the fruit. Let this dry briefly, put in sand or perlite and soon you will have a pineapple plant to brighten your home.

Helpful Hints

To remove surface soil from plastic dinnerware, rub with baking soda sprinkled on a damp cloth. Soda removes the soil with a gentle action that won't take off the finish or scratch the surface.
