This all-day program is quite worthwhile and we hope a number of Lancaster Countians will attend.

ALFALFA acreage in Lancaster County leads the state of Pennsylvania in a recent census report. The harvest season for this important legume is approaching on many farms. In recent years the trend has been toward cutting the crop earlier than full blossom in order to get maximum feed value. For the established stand of alfalfa we prefer the bud to early blossom stage for the first cutting each year; however, on the new stand for the first crop removed, we suggest that growers permit the maturity to reach the 10 to 20% blossom-stage before cutting. By cutting prior to any blossom development could weaken

THE PREVENTION of damage by birds to fruit and vegetables in the home garden is a difficult undertaking. We get many calls each year on how to stop the birds from eating cherries, peas, and other fruits. Blackbirds and starlings seem to be largely responsible for this damage. To the best of our knowledge we do not know of any spray that will be successful in keeping them away. For the smaller fruits and vegetables we have observed tobacco muslin doing a real good job.
