Push for More Traffic Safety

What has your organization done for traffic safety since July 1 last year? Gov. William W. Scranton has asked the question — and is offering awards for the right answers.

The Pennsylvania Bureau of Traffic Safety has issued a second and final call to all Pennsylvania business, civic and fraternal organizations to submit their 1963-64 traffic safety projects for recognition by Gov. Scranton.

"The Governor's Award program, announced in February, has created considerable interest resulting in many fine safety projects being submitted for recognition," Commissioner Harry H. Brainerd, of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Traffic Safety said.

"We feel, however, that there are hundreds of additional traffic safety projects that are worthy of recognition. We want all organizations sponsoring worthwhile
