Mount Joy - Manheim road is narrow, dangerous and heavily traveled. No part is narrower or more dangerous than the section where a New York woman was killed Sunday night.

We recall that several months ago a boy was killed near Long park on the old Harrisburg road. And, recall that within a few days a low berm was repaired?

The Mount Joy-Manheim road is not a secondary highway. It carries much more traffic—cars and trucks, both large and small. It is becoming more and more a turn-pike feeder.

The stretch of highway deserves to be repaired and improved—even after a fatal accident.

'64 Playground Program Ends

The Mount Joy playground is completing its busy summer season of varied activities.

Last week the beginners completed in a checker tournament and Howard Mott became the champion. Fred Raudabaugh was runner-up.

The beginners participated in a teatherball tournament. Howard Mott was again the first place winner with Steve Raudabaugh taking second honors.

The intermediate and senior boys held a quoit tournament during the week and Doug Estock placed first with Barry Teleky a close second.

Two special events were conducted at the Borough Park last week — a doll show and a pet fair.

Many favorite dolls were judged with these first and second place winners: smallest, Kathy Gephart, Ella Gainer; largest, Cindy Gainer, Sandy Stahl; prettiest, Beth Gibble; best collection, Beth Gibble, Sandy Stahl; prettiest hair, Sandy Stahl, Beth Gibble; most lifelike, Sandy Stahl, Brenda Mackinson; most unusual, Debbie Sipe, Sherri McClearn; most loved, Sandy Stahl, Debbie Gainer.

Dogs, kittens, turtles and many other pets found their way to the park Friday evening or the playground's Pet Fair. Many spectators viewed the show which included a pet parade and the judging of entrants. The list of winners and categories follows: most lively pet, Linda Grisinger; most unusual, Pat Greiner; most loved pet, Mike Conners; largest, Beth Gibble; smallest pet, Sandy Stahl and Howard Mott; most handsome, Larry Fackler; prettiest kitten, Susan Eyer.

The Joy-Cees served watermelon to the group at a party held last Thursday at the Park.
