

CAUGHT

On Turnpike

Driving on the New Jersey Turnpike one day a snappy convertible zipped by me.

I only got a glance at the girl driving it, but she looked like a real beauty. I stepped on the accelerator to catch up with her for a better look.

Before I caught up with her, however, a siren started wailing behind me and a state policeman whipped by me and pulled both the girl and me over to the side of the road. He told me to stay in my car while he wrote out the ticket for the girl. After the girl drove away, the patrolman came over to me. Handing me a sheet of paper with the girl's name and address on it, he said, "OK, Mac, shove off. But if you do not slow down, you won't live to meet her."

FLASHLIGHT BATTERIES

Dead flashlight batteries can be revived to some extent by keeping them in a warm oven overnight. Or to do it the hard way and get better results, remove the paper cover from the batteries, punch a few small holes in the base of the batteries with a nail; then put them in a strong salt water solution for three or four hours. When you take them out, dry them and dip them in melted wax, and replace the paper covers when they're cool.

PAINT ON SHOES

If, while you're painting, you manage to get some spots on your leather shoes, you can remove these paint spots by wetting the head of a kitchen match and rubbing this over the stains.

Did you know that more than 145 million Americans—77 percent of the civilian population—had some form of health insurance at the end of 1963.

The key to success, according to today's youth—is the one that fits the ignition. part of his pay.
