Eating Out Helps Young Children

If you introduce young boys and girls to new foods at home, they will be ready to accept school lunches or restaurant food. By grade school they need to know how to make simple food choices, says Louise W. Hamilton, extension nutrition specialist, of Penn State U. When a set menu is offered for school lunch, a child needs to know it is important for him to pick up his pint of milk and drink it. Developing an attitude of expecting to eat the food that is

THE STORM THAT POINTED OUT THE KIDNAPER'S LAIR

Because a storm caused a mail plane to veer off its course, a desperate and deadly gang of kidnapers were caught in their own hideout.

Charles F. Urschel, millionaire oil man of Oklahoma City was kidnaped the night of July 23, 1933 by two men with submachine guns. He was taken from the back porch of his home where he was playing cards with his wife and friends.

Days later the kidnapers sent a ransom note demanding $200,000. A friend of Urschel's delivered the money in a suitcase to a man in Kansas City. The next evening Charles Urschel was released near Norman, Oklahoma, eighteen miles south of his home.

Urschel was free now, but the kidnapers were still at large with the $200,000 ransom money. There were no clues until Urschel told his story:

The kidnapers had tied his hands and taped his eyes. Urschel had no sense of direction, but the ride was long. His confinement was in a roughly boarded room at a farmhouse. The kidnapers let him keep his wristwatch. It was to play a prominent part in bringing the criminals to prison.

"At 9:30 each morning a plane flew over the farmhouse," Urschel told officers. "In the evening at 5 another plane came over. The day (July 30) before the ransom was paid the morning plane didn't come over."

The airlines were checked. The log of American Airlines showed that a mail plane flying between Dallas and Amarillo, Texas had detoured a section on that Sunday to miss a storm. The section was in the vicinity of Paradise, Texas.

Officers closed in quickly. At dawn on August 12, the farmhouse was raided and Harvey Bailey, notorious Southwest criminal was apprehended. Also taken was Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon and their young son, Armon Shannon.

On the same day Albert Bates, a notorious criminal, was picked up in Denver. A few days later officers captured George "Machine Gun" Kelly and his wife, Kathryn.

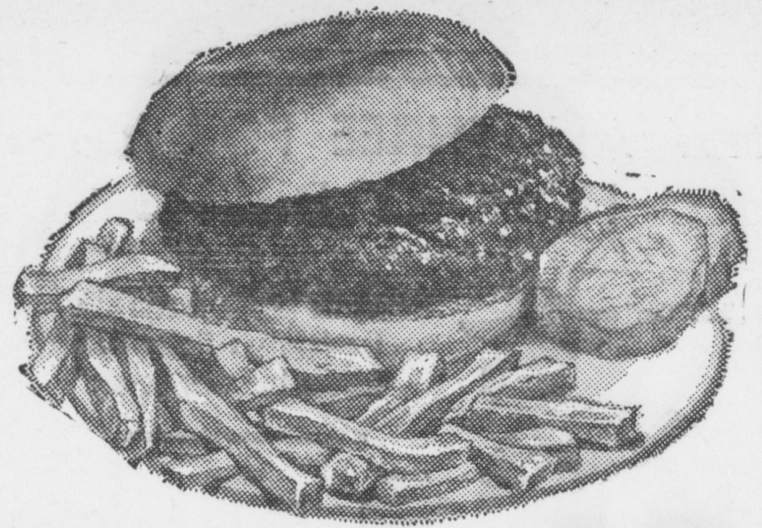

But it was a storm that made it possible to start the ball rolling.

put in front of him will save many problems.

A child is apt to accept new foods readily if he is introduced frequently to new foods at home with no special issues made. This doesn't mean he will always like every food but he need not complain either, reminds Miss Hamilton.

The more experience grade school children have with eating in other homes, restaurants, or school lunches, the more likely they will be to accept various foods as teenagers and adults. Children may find that Mrs. Smith's casserole, which isn't like mother's, may be good. This may be a time to let children make some of their own sandwiches or salads.
