As Tall As Lincoln

ON HIS WAY from Springfield to Washington, for his inauguration, many men stepped up to the platform to stand back-to-back with Lincoln and measure their height against his. Most of them were shorter. In Pittsburgh, a husky coal miner proved to be exactly as tall as Lincoln.

AS TALL AS LINCOLN! What about the height of his mind and spirit; Lincoln was as tall in character as he was physically. He stands out, head and shoulders above the crowd, a measuring standard for manhood.

HE WAS TALL IN HUMILITY. When one of his generals insulted him and kept him waiting for several hours, he said: "I would hold his horse, if he would only give us victories."

HE WAS TALL IN TOLERANCE. It was Lincoln who uttered these immortal words: "With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right."

HE WAS TALL IN COURAGE. He had the courage to stand up for his conviction that the nation could not continue to exist "half slave and half free."

HE WAS TALL IN JUSTICE. He pardoned many soldiers. "A boy," he said, "should not be blamed if his legs are cowardly."

HE WAS TALL IN HUMOR. Lincoln was big enough to laugh at himself. When it was reported that one of his cabinet members had called him a fool, Lincoln retorted: "He must be right — he is a very smart man."

HE WAS TALL IN FAITH. In the dark days of the war he said: "Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it."

ON THE WALL OF HISTORY, Lincoln has left us a mark to measure up to. He was one of God's tallest heroes.

brain surgery last week. Betty formerly lived in Maytown.

Our personal collection of wooden "stompers," which we displayed in The Bulletin window two days last week, occasioned many interesting comments.

But none was more interesting than that of J. Omar Landis, Lancaster County auctioneer, who saw the stompers when he came into The Bulletin office on business last Friday.

"Potato mashers!" he chuckled. "Do you know, a potato masher was the very first item I ever sold by auctioneering! Guess you could say it gave me my start!

"It happened at Manheim Township junior high school when I was in the seventh grade! I was the 'auctioneer' for a little 'sale' our class was having—and I remember the potato masher brought the amazing sum of fifteen cents!"

Add to last week's "People do interesting things:"

Mrs. Fran Greiner, Park Avenue, fell while skating several days ago and broke her left shoulder.

Mrs. Greiner is an accomplished organist. Although she has a heavy cast on the upper part of her body, her left hand is free, and she told us this week that she can lift it high enough to reach the keyboard of the organ and continue her practicing.

"Some new music came, which I had ordered," she said, "and I was afraid I couldn't play it with a broken arm. But my hand reaches up just far enough — and of course an organ takes very little pressure on the keys—so I get along fine!"

We have an inventress in our midst!

Mrs. Floyd Bowden, Delta Street, is the mother of three young children. She has "invented" a child's game with which her family spends many happy hours. She has "given" the game to children in other families, who find it equally fascinating. Now all she needs is a copyright or patent, a production line, and she could be in competition with "Monopoly," "Parchesi," "Authors" and other all-time favorites!!

Build Machine To Read ZIP

Postmaster Elmer Zerphey has received word from Postmaster General John A. Gronouski in Washington, D. C., that a big "breakthrough" has now been made on electronic machines to "read" ZIP-coded addresses on mail.

"The Postmaster General said he expects to begin installing these sophisticated machines in major post offices starting in about a year," the postmaster explained.

Zerphey said each machine will be able to sort, as well as read, at the rate of 35,000 letters an hour.

The offices to get the address readers have not been announced, but the local postmaster said they will have significant effects on the mail in and out of each community regardless of whether it gets the new machines.

This is because they will speed incoming mail to smaller offices from major cities and step up the dispatch of mail deposited in smaller communities but which must be processed enroute at major mail massing points.

The postmaster emphasized, however, introduction of the "seeing eye" device next year does not mean ZIP Code isn't useful already.

"ZIP code," he explained, "is important in mail handling under the system of mail processing already in use which will continue to be in use as the basic system at most points. These machines will be just another step—in conjunction with the mechanical mail sorting machines we have developed—to help keep pace with the growing volumes of mail. Neither will the machines endanger jobs—they will only help us meet mail expansion with minimum manpower expansion."
