

Magician at Donegal

Jan Berkshire, presenting a combination routine of comedy and magic, presented a delightful assembly to Donegal students Thursday morning.

Capitalizing on audience participation, Berkshire began his program with a series of rope tricks. Gail Buhlinger, Donna Ney, Larry Emmeiser, and Jay Nissley attempted to choke the magician, but the agile magician escaped unharmed.

Jean Broomer and Dave Brubaker helped Berkshire dismantle a parasol as part of another unique act.

Jack Rice played a card game with Berkshire and ended up by being wished "Happy New Years" a bit late.

Well-chosen buttons add to the usefulness and appearance of a garment, reminds Bernice Tharp, Penn State extension clothing specialist. Keep the style of buttons in harmony with the style of garment — tailored buttons for casual or tailored clothes and more decorative buttons for dressier styles. To avoid a spotty effect, do not have too harsh a color contrast between buttons and garments.

Approve Marietta Day Care Proposals

After several months of discussions, surveys and interviews, concrete plans are developing for a Child Day Care Center in Marietta.

As soon as a proposed site, which has been selected by those active in promoting the center, is approved and needed renovations made, action will be taken to place the center in service.

It is estimated that the cost for operating the center the first year will be approximately $20,000. Half of this amount, according to an announcement made this week, will be financed by a grant of $10,000 approved by the Board of Directors of the Tressler Lutheran Home for Children. The home was founded as the Tressler Orphan's Home at Loysville.

Further funds to meet the other half of the cost for the first year are anticipated from fees or contributions from parents, (according to their ability to pay) for the use of the center for their children, from public funds contributed by interested persons, churches and organizations in the community, and from the 1966 budget of the Central Penna Synod of the Lutheran Church of America.

85th Birthday

Mrs. Elmira L. Kibler, 3 West Fairview Ave., Marietta, who observed her 85th birthday on Monday, Feb. 22, was born in Marietta in 1879 and is the daughter of the late Albert Libhart and the former Sara Ann Berger of Marietta.

Mrs. Kibler is a charter member of the Presbyterian Furnace Chapel, having attended since its inception in 1886 until the present time. Originally, as a member of one of the Vesta Furnace families in East Marietta, she, along with other neighborhood children, attended the school building until, because of increased interest and attendance, a chapel was erected in July, 1888.

Mrs. Kibler is the widow of George Kibler and the mother of seven children, three of whom are still living: Mrs. Oscar Brayman, with whom she resides, Mrs. Chas. Penwell, Jr., and Roy Kibler all of Marietta. She also has ten grandchildren, ten great grandchildren and four great-great grandchildren.

Although she is in good health, the loss of most of her sight has decreased her numerous activities in recent years. She no longer sews or reads, nor attends meetings of the Women's Club or the Helping Hand Club, in both of which she was active for many years. However, her main interest besides her family, is still the Furnace Chapel Sunday School and its Bible Class which she attends regularly. She is also one of the oldest members of the United Presbyterian Church, Marietta.

Ash Wednesday

Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, Marietta, with Rev. H. S. Alleman, pastor, will have special Ash Wednesday services. The morning service will be at 6 a.m. for persons who may worship on their way to work and at 7:30 p.m. Topic for the Matins will be "The Way of the Lord" while the vesper theme for the Communion Service is "The Altar of the Lord." Everyone is invited.

Community Chorus

The Marietta Community Chorus held its first practice for the Easter Cantata Feb. 21 in the Methodist church. Other sessions will be held each Sunday evening. The production will be directed by Mrs. Gerald Libhart, who has led the group since its origin as the susquehanna centennial chorus in 1962.

Mrs. Conrad Smith, West Walnut St., is a medical patient in the St. Joseph's hospital.

Gerald Libhart, Cub Master, Colebrook Road, is a surgical patient in the Saint Joseph hospital.

Mrs. John Boyer, W. Walnut St. is a medical patient in the St. Joseph hospital.

Members of the Marietta Recreation Assoc. will meet in the Marietta Community House, Tuesday, March 2, at 8 p.m. for the election of officers and the planning for the 1965 Children's Fair.

Members of the newly-organized Marietta Citizens Committee will meet in the Marietta Community House at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, March 2. Progress reports and procedure in community action will be in the order of business. Joseph Carroll and Mrs. Robert Vanderslice, co-chairmen, are inviting the public to attend.

Think

Know where you want to live. Regardless of where you decide to retire, do not base your decision purely on impulse or enthusiastic reports. Go take a look.

He says one can make his retirement years the most satisfying period of his life. One suggestion is to do something in your retirement. Retire "to" something — and not merely "from" something.

Money is not necessarily the problem many think. You can afford to retire if you want to badly enough. The question is the degree of comfort. Start by figuring how much you are worth, says the Kiplinger book. Then you will need to know what your income will be in the years ahead and how much your post-retirement income will be. Specific Kiplinger advice includes:

Plan for more income later.

Consider health insurance a must.

Make your will now, or check up on it at regular or frequent intervals. Don't trust your memory of what is in a will you made years ago.

Plan to be doing something you enjoy after retirement. That is the real key. And take a few minutes for it occasionally when you are young.

Consider carefully where you will live. There are hundreds of questions you must answer regardless of the type of dwelling you prefer.

Consider getting another job or running your own business.

ELECTRIC CORD CARE TIP

If a cord is permanently attached to an electric appliance, wrap it loosely around the appliance, advises Mrs. Cecile Sinden, Penn State home management specialist. Be sure an iron or other heating appliance is cool before wrapping because the heat will burn away the insulated covering. On a vacuum cleaner, wrap the cord around the hooks, using no tension as you wrap.

SAVE BABY PIGS

Keep newborn pigs from chilling during cold weather, says Les Burdette, extension livestock specialist at Penn. State University. Cold, drafty, wet farrowing pens cause troubles with baby pigs. The high death rate among baby pigs can often be prevented by good management.
