Bypass Plans Exhibited For Mount Joy Area

Next Questions About Interchanges

The battle of the interchanges was joined Monday night, March 22, at the Friendship Fire Hall!

Although a somewhat passive, non-explosive battle, the matter of where to locate the interchanges along the proposed, new bypass saw first action as the Chamber of Commerce sponsored a public meeting to discuss the new highway project.

At present, state highway engineers locate three interchanges in the immediate vicinity.

One is drawn immediately west of Big Chiques creek where the new bypass would leave present Route 230; a second is marked on Cedar Tree road, just north of the Henry Garber farm, and a third is plotted on the Hershey-Elizabethtown road, where that highway is crossed by a big power line.

Various alternatives were mentioned, including the possibility of a partial or complete interchange at the bypass intersection with the Mount Joy - Manheim road.

Manheim people were present at the meeting.

Lester Hostetter, retiring president of the Mount Joy Chamber of Commerce, was in charge of the meeting.

Using maps, Edward Daniels, highway planner for the Lancaster County Planning commission, explained the project, indicated what has been done on the project and predicted some of the things which will follow the hearing this week in Elizabethtown (Thursday, March 25, 10 a.m. at the Elizabethtown high school).

He said that the planning commission at the hearing will endorse the bypass plan but will not recommend specific interchanges. The endorsement will cover the "corridor" through which the highway will pass but will recommend further study as to number, locations and spacing of interchanges. He indicated the need for traffic counts on highways in the area. It was his personal opinion that the corridor will not shift much from its present plotted course.

Approximately 100 people attended the meeting and were very interested in seeing the proposed routing. The state, finally will mark a 260-ft. right of way for the 4-lane highway, which will include a 60-ft. medial strip. The highway will be 50 percent financed by federal funds.

It was pointed out that some Elizabethtown people are interested in having the Cedar Tree road interchange moved to the Colebrook road.

D.H.S. Students In Regional

Four Donegal high school vocalists participated last weekend in the regional high school Choral Festival, held March 18 to 20 at Abington, Pa. A fifth student was eligible but was unable to take part.

Nearly 200 boys and girls participated in the event, which featured concerts both Friday and Saturday nights.

At the first one, Caralyne Blantz, a senior, singing a soprano number from "Madam Butterfly," was one of the featured vocalists.

Others at Abington included: Kathleen Brown, senior, soprano; Lucy Eshelman, junior, soprano, and Harold Smith, senior, bass. Ted Fellenbaum, also bass, was eligible to participate but had a part in the Junior class play.

All participated in the 27th district contest on Feb. 25 - 27 at Wrightsville. A sixth D.H.S. student at that event was Dale Heisey.

On Sunday, March 21, Smith, Miss Blantz and Joanne Gish, also a Donegal musician, were invited as outstanding senior music students to attend the annual honor meeting of the Lancaster County Music Educators association, held at the First Presbyterian church in Lancaster.

Plan Vesper Service For Memorial Day

A new program is being added this year to the annual Mount Joy Memorial Day celebration.

George Albert, co-chairman of the long week-end of activities, announced this week that on Sunday night, May 30, vesper services will be held in Memorial park.

Arrangements are in the hands of the local ministerial association.

Some of the greatest bounces are the result of the fall that pride went before.

Scout Fund Drive Opens

The Boy Scout New Camp drive for $350,000, is now in action all across Lancaster county.

This announcement was made Tuesday night by John M. Gibson, general chairman, at a giant kick-off rally in Lincoln junior high school in Lancaster. The meeting was attended by volunteer solicitors from practically all communities in the county, including Mount Joy. Walter Sloan is Mount Joy chairman.

Dr. Paul H. Ripple, chairman of the Western Scouting District, pointed out that the $350,000 goal included $90,000 for the cost of land in northern Lancaster and southern Lebanon counties, and that $260,000 was needed for the construction of various buildings and swimming pool, necessary to an effective camping program. Dr. Ripple emphasized that the new camp reservation was made necessary by the overcrowded conditions at the present Camp Chiquetan.

All communities in the Western District, including Mount Joy, are holding local community report meetings on March 29th and a district report meeting will be held March 30th from 7 to 9 in the Mount Joy Lutheran church, Mount Joy.

In addition to Sloan, other Mount Joy leaders include: Arthur D. Sprecher, O. K. Snyder, Jr., Joseph D. Buchenauer, John E. Tyndall, Richard A. Rainbolt, Kenneth A. Gainer, Robert K. Shank, Albert Kleiner, Dr. John H. Stauffer and Robert E. Kline.

And on March 28, 1962, we began publishing the Red Rose Valley FARM and HOME NEWS, that robust little weekly which in three short years has carved for itself an outstanding place among the well-read and well-loved weekly newspapers in Lancaster County!

More of that unusual couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Climenhaga of Harrisburg, about whom we wrote last week.

They came into the Bulletin office again on Thursday and we had another chat. Mrs. Climenhaga is the former Mary Hess of Mount Joy, and is a youthful 75, six years younger than her husband, whom she married about three years ago.

"We've had three wedding trips already," Mr. Climenhaga told us with a twinkle. (Turn to page 5)

'Of This and That'

by the editor's wife

March is a month of many moods! In its first 23 days we have had rain, fog, snow, frequent winds, balmy days, and bitter cold.

It would almost seem as if March were trying our winter-weary patience to the utmost, to determine if we are worthy of the glorious springtime that is certain to be "just around the corner" in April!

March, as always, has had its days of note, too. First came the "Ides of March," on the 15th, that day which in ancient times was ill-omened, when dire things could happen and often did.

On March 17th, the Irish paraded in New York; sons of Erin wore something green, and Irish jokes were the order of St. Patrick's Day.

March 20 was the official "first day of spring," when the days and nights were of equal length, and the sun rose squarely in the east and set squarely in the west.

On a personal basis, March has its significance, too. March 19 would have been my father's 80th birthday,
