READ INSTRUCTION BOOK

Before you use a new appliance for the first time, read the instruction book, advises Helen Bell, Penn State extension home management specialist. The book will tell you how to handle the appliance and the care you will be expected to give it. You will get better use from an appliance when you know how to use it correctly.

PRUNE FRUIT TREES

A pruning sequence suggested by Carl Bittner, extension pomologist at Penn State university, is to start on bearing apple and pear trees; do the young trees later. Then work on the sour cherries. Leave the sweet cherries and peaches until last. Grapes may be pruned in late fall, winter, or early spring.
