

— by R. A. R.

The Mount Joy BULLETIN

DEVOTED TO THE BEST INTERESTS AND WELFARE OF MOUNT JOY AND ITS AREA

VOL. 65, NO. 7.

Mount Joy, Penna., Wednesday, July 21, 1965

SEVEN CENTS

Ralph M. Snyder
R. D. 2
Mount Joy, Pa.

Then there was this guy in Elizabethtown who had locked his keys in the car. The serviceman finally came.

"This will be easy," he said, as he reached through the open window and opened the door.

In case you haven't heard — The big noise about "what is going to happen at Bel-air is very much exaggerated.

It isn't a race track. Nor, is it a duck farm. It's an industry—a name you'll know when it's finally announced.

And, it's not 2,000 acres they're wanting. Maybe 200 is nearer right. And, it's not 4,000 people to be employed. It's more like 200.

The news story this week of the death of Clyde Beatty stirred boyhood recollections, almost forgotten after these many many years.

As a grade school boy, we were always among the youngsters who arrived early at the circus grounds and helped with odd jobs to earn a pass into the afternoon show. As we recall now, we never worked harder for anything than those relatively short hours enjoying the spangled splendors of the sawdust ring. Seemed that circus bosses were unusually cross to the boys.

Anyhow, after the back-breaking work of helping set up the tent, bleachers, peeling potatoes, etc, we were sitting on the top row when the already famous Beatty (although he must have been a relatively young man at that time) appeared in the steel cage with his roaring beasts.

Somewhere in the course (Turn to page 2)

Axe Buys Own Store Ready To Begin New Bypass Surveys

Furnace Axe, for several years manager of the G. C. Murphy store in Mount Joy, has resigned from the company and has purchased a store of his own in Windsor, Penna.

His resignation became effective July 14 and he takes possession of his new venture August 1. The business is a general store established nearly 40 years ago.

He and his family will be moving to Windsor shortly.

A new phase in the preparation for building a bypass around Mount Joy is now ready to begin!

This week a number of property owners north of the borough received notices from the state indicating that within the next few days survey crews will be in the area again setting stakes and taking measurements.

Generally speaking, only property owners along the "S" curves on the Manheim road, westward along the are involved. However west side of the beacon light of the Cedar Tree Road, The property owners involved indicate that a wider corridor will be under study than indicated a few months ago when public hearings were being held.

Beginning at a point on Rt. 230 as it crosses Big Chiques creek, the new roadway is expected to swing northward, then curve toward the "S" curves on the Manheim road, westward along the south side of the beacon light and on west crossing the Cedar Tree road a short distance north of the Garber farm house.

Original drawings indicated that the right-of-way would then swing northwest again.

However, indications now are that the surveys may explore a wider corridor as the roadway finds its way around Elizabethtown.

On Dean's List

David Nissley, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Nissley, 408 S. Market Ave., is on the Evangel College dean's list for the spring semester.

A senior, Nissley has a grade point average of 3.0 out of a possible 3.0. He is majoring in mathematics.

Nissley is a graduate of Donegal high school.

Evangel College, Springfield, Mo., is a regionally accredited four-year college of arts and sciences. A church-related college, its parent denomination is the Assemblies of God.

TO CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hasinger and children have returned from a travel trailer trip to Canada, the Adirondack mountains, and other places of interest en route.

TO PITTSBURGH

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bowden and children are vacationing this week in Pittsburgh, visiting relatives and friends.

TO CALIFORNIA

Carrie Ney of Mount Joy and Anna Barto of Elizabethtown are on a month's bus tour to California and points of interest going and coming.

Music In The Park Program

Music in the park!

Saturday night, July 24, beginning at 8 p.m., the Mount Joy Community Council will present the Couriers Quartet in a summer concert at Memorial Park.

This is another in a series of "come and bring your folding chairs and blankets."

In case of bad weather, the concert will be held in the Donegal Annex.

The Couriers present gospel music that carries a tremendous impact and they have sung from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico, including Carnegie Hall in New York and Long Beach Municipal auditorium in California — not to mention Hershey Sports arena. They travel more than 100,000 miles per year in their own private air-conditioned bus.

The group was formed eight years ago and they have recorded nine long-playing albums.

The quartet includes Don Baldwin, manager and baritone; Dave Kyllonen, bass; Duane Nicholson, tenor; Neil Enloe, lead, and "Little Dave" Young, accompanist.

The Community Council has presented several concerts in the park this summer. The most recent was the highly successful combined choir program.

Charles Ashenfelter is in charge.

50-MILE SWIM

Ten local boys and girls took part in a 50-mile swim beginning at 6 a.m. Wednesday morning at the Mount Joy swimming pool. They swam continuously until the event was finished.

Those participating were Willis Heisey, Gus Meckley, Don Snyder, Jim Shearer and Tom Tripple; Terri Gemberling, Sue Stark, Jill Hayman, Jackie Shupp and Debbie Kulp.

Girl Scouts to Camp

Two Mount Joy girls are in Idaho attending the Girl Scout Senior Roundup at the Farragut Wildlife Management Area.

They are:

Barbara Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts, and Linda Zerphey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zerphey, Jr.

A third representative of the area, Ann Heisey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heisey, also is attending.

All girls — approximately 9,000 — are from across the country and around the world. All have been picked for their outstanding characteristics and as fine individuals to represent their areas.

'He Looked Into Every Pot'

"He looked into every pot!"

That's the way Mrs. Betty Groff described how she was interviewed by the food editor of the New York Times for a big feature story which appeared last week with three pictures.

Craig Claiborne was at the Groff home, south of Mount Joy, on July 1 as a guest with a Lancaster party. One of the other guests, Mrs. Ben Mann, had wanted him to eat "some real honest to goodness Pennsylvania Dutch cooking."

"He got the regular menu," Mrs. Groff laughed. But, he talked with her until about 11 p.m., she added.

The response she has had from the article has amazed Mrs. Groff. "I almost need a secretary to keep up with the telephone calls," she said. One of the three pictures was taken in the Groff dining room and included Mrs. Groff and her two sons, Charles, 8, and John, 4. They have a third child, a foster son, Bob Rote, 18.

Another photo showed Mrs. Groff's father, Clarence Herr of Ronks, inspecting some of the many, many hams which he cures each year as part of his own business. The writer's interest had been whetted at the Groff's about the kind of ham she served and was stimulated to contact her father and to see how he hickory smokes his meats.

Too, Claiborne was interested in Lancaster's Central market and had one picture of a young lady grating horse radish.

Included were a half dozen or more recipes for several Pennsylvania Dutch dishes, including chicken pot pie, "Chicken and corn soup," baked ham, glazed ham, shellbark hickory kisses and Mrs. Groff's Cracker pudding.

The Times food editor stresses the importance of good foods in the Lancaster area and how they serve as a "powerful magnet" for tourists.

Asked how she had liked being interviewed by an editor of one of the largest and finest newspapers in the world, Mrs. Groff replied, "I was quite honored."

'Of This and That'

by the editor's wife

World's Fair Trip Number II!

When we arrived back in Mount Joy after our trip to the Fair in May of 1964, footsore and weary, we told ourselves, "Never again!" We thought the 1965 Fair would have to struggle along without us!

But memories are unreliable! Somehow we forgot the tired, aching feet, the hustling, bustling crowds, and back we went last week!

We are glad we did. Again we came home footsore and weary—but it was worth it! This time, instead of general

"impressions", we got a VERY GOOD LOOK at the Fair.

True, we had to stand in line (or should I say "walk in line") for one solid hour to see the General Electric exhibit. But the fascinating kitchens of the past and present, with their lifelike animations, were indescribable.

We acquired a somewhat painful sunburn as we "ran the maze" to see the Pepsi Cola exhibit. But as we floated off into a world of fantasy and beauty, with the melody of "It's a small world after all!" ringing in our ears, the sunburn was forgotten.

We maneuvered ourselves all the way around the huge Ford building before we got inside — but the ride in a yellow convertible through the past and the future more than compensated us.

At General Motors we were fortunate in that we waited only briefly before "embarking" on our ride into "Futurama," with its fantastic glimpses of things to (Turn to page 5)

Larry Snyder Enlists in Marines

Marine Pvt. Larry E. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Snyder, Mount Joy R2 is presently undergoing recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

A 1965 graduate of Manheim Central high school, Pvt. Snyder was enlisted by Sgt. Gene Lolus of the Marine Corps Recruiting Substation at the post office at Lancaster. After 11 weeks of basic training he will report to Camp Lejeune, N. C., for four weeks of advanced training before receiving 20 days of leave.

The man who tries to work all day and night, too, is not always the fellow who gets the most work done.

THIS ISSUE -- Two Sections 20 PAGES

As a public service. The Bulletin lists the following physician, who may be reached for emergency service or by those who are unable to contact their family physician:

Sunday
Dr. John Gates