YOUR LEGISLATOR'S REPORT

By Sherman L. Hill

How often does one stop to think about the importance of our water supply? For a number of years we have been told that our supply will lessen and that we should be concerned with conservation and study means for new and expanded facilities. The Lancaster Co. Planning Commission has appointed a Water Resource Advisory Committee to study how much water we have, where its sources are and will our supply meet future needs. This is encouraging and will benefit the people of Lancaster County.

Pennsylvania's Water and Power Resources Board is presently considering a request from the Chester Municipal Water Authority for an additional allocation of water from the Octoraro creek. If the request is approved, Chester will be permitted to almost double its present consumption. Will Lancaster County's future water needs be imperiled if Chester's request is approved? At present the answer is unknown, but it could prove costly and maybe tragic if we give away water today that we need in the near future.

Legislators from Lancaster and Chester Counties were given the opportunity to appear before a scheduled meeting of the Water and Power Resources Board. The meeting was informative and interesting, and we are hopeful the Board will have all answers for our protection before issuing a decision on the Chester request.

The deadline date for reapportionment is almost here. The court-imposed date of Sept. 1 leaves little time to study and discuss an important issue. In the House of Representatives the majority party seems to hesitate to bring the bill out of committee because Legislators of their own membership will be affected when the House membership is reduced to 200 instead of the present 209. Because of this, dissatisfaction may arise in the Democratic ranks. With much more delay the responsibility of the reapportionment will be placed in the courts.

Have you been reading about all investigations, task forces studies, special committee reports, and other investigations taking place in the State Government? This happens when the majority party doesn't have a definite program. Our Democratic friends are prompt to offer criticism but neglect to offer a constructive program. A Democratic-controlled committee will not bring to the floor of the House a Senate approved bill to provide $500,000 for operation of the Joint State Government Commission. If they really are of the opinion the General Assembly's research arm isn't necessary then why spend many dollars on investigation? The people of Lancaster County will not accept action of this kind. Politics which involve deals, and politics which sacrifice good government for immature thinking will never survive in our county.

My son, Douglas, a Sophomore at Millersville State College, has had the privilege of being a Courtesy Page in the House of Representatives last week. He would like to share his thoughts with you.

On Monday and Tuesday the 9th and 10th of this month I was honored to have been a Courtesy Page in the House of Representatives of the General Assembly. One may imagine that I couldn't have learned too much about the job in such a short time. However, the opposite is true and the Pages' duties recur daily, permitting one to learn the work rapidly. I must admit that it was not as glamorous as popular opinion would have it. Perhaps the most tedious of work appears before and after the session when the pages are responsible for keeping the bills in the 209 Representatives folders up to date. To elaborate a bit, this means that each folder must have all bills that were passed or taken off the calendar removed, and that each folder must have bills placed in to them as each appears on the calendar. All of this activity continues with the bills in chronological order. During the session itself, the Page's obligations on the floor are rather simple. That is, the pages must run various errands for the Representatives. If he does his work efficiently, the Representative remains happy, the chief Clerk (in charge of the pages) will be happy; if the Chief Clerk is happy, the pages will be happy, because they will retain their positions. In conclusion, I certainly thank Mr. Anthony J. Petrosky, the chief clerk, for the opportunity to learn a bit more about our State government in Harrisburg. I sincerely suggest that anyone who considers himself a responsible citizen should attend a few sessions to become familiar with the way in which our lawmakers operate.

The Worry Clinic

by Dr. Geo. W. Crane

Girls, be sure you scrapbook this case, for Dr. Pierce offers you a valuable bit of advice. It deals with the "image" you must maintain if you expect a wedding ring from any cultured, normal male in modern society. Too many girls are seduced by glib advertising that checkmates their marriage!

CASE S-478: Dr. Robert B. Pierce is the pastor of Chicago's famous skyscraper church in the heart of the Loop. He occupies a unique parsonage high in the sky.

Recently he got on the elevator at the 22nd floor to go downstairs to his church office.

At the 21st floor a young man boarded the automatic elevator. He was wearing a hat.

"I didn't know him," Dr. Pierce says, "but we nodded to each other."

At the 20th floor, a couple of attractive girls got on the elevator.

They seemed to be cultured, charming young women. The young man thus doffed his hat, gallantly.

At other floors additional passengers got on the elevator or got off till they reached the 9th floor.

"By that time," Dr. Pierce added, "only this young man and I were left, plus the two young women."

But as the elevator door closed, one of these attractive looking girls said:

"This damned elevator stops at every floor!"

"Whereupon," concluded Dr. Pierce, "the young man put his hat right back on his head!"

Then Dr. Pierce used this personal episode to launch upon a sermon dealing with the "image" that cultured women must maintain in modern society.

Also, many teen-age girls are so eager to appear adultish and sophisticated, that they act like sheep when advertisers try to stampede them into using liquor as well as cigarettes and even outlandish costumes in dress or fingernail polish.

Although our Scientific Marriage Foundation shows that most men abhor women who smoke, thousands of coeds adopt the cigaret habit, mistakenly by believing it will increase their romantic appeal.

"Don't waste my time introducing me to a woman who smokes," is the standard request of thousands of young doctors, business executives, school principals and scientific farmers.

Yet some of these men are chain smokers themselves

"Dr. Crane,; protests many coeds, "why do men who smoke demand that their sweethearts avoid tobacco?"

Well, it's because of this "image" of romantic girls which men cherish in their imaginations.

It is just a part of the age-old double standard that is still very evident in modern society.

Men classify girls into two major categories, namely, the "good time Gerties" vs. those they might marry.

The former are used for sexual purposes and then discarded like a used cigaret.

But the girls whom men plan to marry are those who maintain that "image" of charming femininity.

Men expect genteel wives who abhor tobacco, liquor, risque stories, excessive slang, profanity, undue interest in sports, and even harsh looking fabrics, sequins or a glaring makeup and fingernails that look like talons or "vampire" claws.

The sooner you girls wake up to reality and learn that sexual "opposites attract," the sooner you'll wear a wedding ring!

NOW IS THE TIME TO FREEZE CORN

Your family can enjoy sweet corn in different styles, including whole kernel, cream style, and on-the-cob, says Doris W. Thomas, Associate Extension Home Economist.

For best results, select plump ears with tender kernels and thick sweet milk. Corn in which the milk is thick and starchy may be frozen cream style.

Ears for whole kernel or cream style corn should be blanched 4 minutes and cooled rapidly. Cut kernels from the cob and pack in moisture-vapor-proof containers. Since corn expands during freezing allow a half inch for head-space in each container.

When freezing corn on-the-cob, blanching time will vary from 7 minutes for small ears to 11 minutes for large ears. Cool quickly, and drain. Wrap cooled ears in aluminum foil, plastic locker paper, or envelopes of moisture-vapor-proof material.

Freeze and store corn at zero degrees or below. For a top-quality project, use frozen corn within 10 months of freezing.

When in need of printing remember The Bulletin.

Murphy Earnings Show Increase

G. C Murphy company net earnings for the first six months of 1965 increased, despite a relatively small gain in sales from fewer stores. The company reported earnings of $2,462,218, or 59c a share compared with $2,420,578, or 58c a share. At June 30 there were 511 stores in operation compared with 513 a year ago.

In the first 6 months the modernization program was continued, 5 stores were opened and 4 were closed. Fifteen new units are presently under construction or contract.

Sales for July increased 10.6%, indicating economic improvement in our operating area. The trend is expected to continue and to contribute substantially toward further improvement in earnings for the latter half of the year.

HIT BY TRAIN

A Harrisburg youth narrowly escaped probable death Thursday night, Aug. 12 at a grade crossing of the Penna. railroad, about two miles east of Mount Joy.

Albert H. Miller, 19, stalled his station wagon on the railroad tracks about 10 p.m. He was attempting to start the motor when he heard the horn of the approaching PRR Penn-Texas and saw the lights of the engine. He jumped, heard a noise, looked back and his car had disappeared.

The 1963 car was demolished and the train, which stopped about a half mile west of the crossing, was delayed an hour and 40 minutes.
