FOR QUALITY FOODS KEEP FREEZER CLEAN

To avoid undesirable odors and prevent contamination, keep your home freezer clean suggests Doris W. Thomas, home economist.

Excess frost on freezer walls or shelves reduces storage space and causes temperatures to rise several degrees. It also makes the freezer inconvenient to use.

Your freezer needs to be completely defrosted and cleaned at least once a year. The instruction book that came with the freezer will be your best guide. If you have misplaced the book, you may follow this procedure: Disconnect the freezer from the electric circuit, then remove all packages, and stack in boxes, then cover with blankets.

Work rapidly. As frost and ice melt, remove from freezer walls with a rubber scraper or smooth-edged wooden paddle. A sharp metal scraper may damage walls. Wipe up water with heavy towels.

Wash inside of freezer with a solution of two table-spoons of baking soda to a quart of warm water, then wipe with a cloth wrung in clear water. Allow to air and dry, then connect the freezer. Let it run 30 minutes before putting in frozen food. When returning packages, place oldest ones on top in a chest type freezer or at the front in an upright type.

Partial defrosting may be needed several times during the year. To do this, scrape from sides of freezer with a dull tool, such as a putty knife. Remove loose frost, then dry sides and bottom of the unit. You won't need to take out food packages; you can stack them, then rearrange as you clean off frost. During partial defrosting, you can leave the current on.

Traffic Safety

Harry H. Brainerd, Commission of Traffic Safety, today urged both Pennsylvania motorists and farmers to observe National Farm Safety Week

Citing an extremely high collision rate between automobiles and slow-moving vehicles, Commissioner Brainerd said National Farm Safety Week is an appropriate period for motorists to become acquainted with and farmers to display a "Slow Moving Vehicle" emblem on farm equipment used on public roads.

The emblem, a brightly colored triangle mounted on the back of a vehicle, identifies a slow-moving vehicle — one traveling 25 miles per hour or less — on the highways. One such vehicle is a farm tractor, which usually travels between 10 and 15 miles per hour.

Commissioner Brainerd reports that research conducted by Ohio State University under sponsorship of the Automotive Safety Foundation shows that farm tractors and machinery are involved in 75% of all slow-moving vehicle accidents and that in two thirds of the accidents the vehicle was hit from the rear.

"The study also found," he said, "that nine out of ten collisions between cars and slow-moving vehicles occurred during daylight hours on good roads free of rain, snow or ice hazards."

Operators of slow-moving farm, highway maintenance and construction equipment are urged by the safety official to display the emblem on such machinery, and that motorists familiarize themselves with an emblem that will be seen more and more in the future.

Perfect Summer Fare

As the weather warms, take life easy when it comes to preparation of food. In the cool of the mornings, make the foods that have to be baked — cakes and cookies, for example. It's wonderful to have such desserts all ready for serving when the sun is high and hot. Use the cookies to accompany chilled fruits for dessert — so simple, so satisfying. The cookies pictured here are crisp, well-flavored and delicious, made with new peanut butter flavor chips.

Peanut Butter Chip 'n Raisin Cookies

- 1/2 cup butter*
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 package (5 1/2 oz.) peanut butter flavor chips
- 1/2 cup dark raisins

*Or use 1/2 cup vegetable shortening.
Cream butter until soft. Add sugars, egg, and vanilla and beat until light and fluffy. Blend in flour, soda, and salt. Stir in chips and raisins. Drop from teaspoon, about 2 inches apart, onto ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 375° for 8 to 10 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.
