Forty persons made up the group of "Golden Agers."

The Salunga Womens club meeting will be held on Monday, Nov. 1, at the Brethren Church at 7:30 p. m. The speaker will be Richard Warren, who will talk on "Covered Bridges".

BPW Hears Broadcaster

Jim Cox, television News Director in Lancaster, was the guest speaker on Monday evening, October 25, at the monthly meeting of Mount Joy Business and Professional Women's club. Mr. Cox is well known in this community as he presents world news on Channel 8 at six and 11 o'clock in the evening, Monday through Friday. His topic was "Public Relations in Television" and he gave a very interesting account of the progress in television since its inception, the demands made by the public and the types of programs required.

Miss Rebecca Kling and Miss Marcene Wilons, Girls of the Month for September and October respectively, were guests of the Club. Rebecca is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kling; Marcene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilson. Mrs. Kling and Mrs. Wilson also were guests.

Music was furnished by "The Horizons" — Miss Barbara Roberts, Miss Janet Nisley and Miss Cheryl Stohler. Mrs. Herbert Sarver presided at the business meeting when reports of the district meeting held Oct. 9 and 10 at the York Valley Inn were given. Those attending were Mrs. Herbert Sarver, Mrs. Paul Shreiner, Mrs. Earl Koser and Miss Jane Fryberger. Mrs. Joseph Germer gave a report on the Community

Council meeting, while Mrs. Arthur Sprecher reported on the progress made by the Finance Committee. A Halloween party is planned for the children of the Day Care Center. Club members are urged to attend the November meeting.

The program was in charge of the Public Relations Committee, Mrs. Robert Hoffmaster, chairman. Committee members include Mrs. Jay Greider, Mrs. A. P. Mitzakovich, Mrs. Alvin Yingst, Mrs. Glenn Forney and Miss Elsie Lefever.

Toddler Saved From Pool

A two-year old toddler, Mary Jo Gainer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gainer Jr., Mount Joy R1, was rescued from probable drowning Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 20, when she was pulled from a pond near her home by Wesley Wittle, 62, of 332 Marietta Avenue.

The child and a four-year-old brother, Terry Robin, were "feeding the fish" at the Florin Anglers' trout pond southwest of Mount Joy when she toddled off into the pool.

Wittle, with two other men were working at the pool and heard a distress cry of the boy when his sister fell into the water. They investigated and Wittle waded into the pond, grabbed Mary Jo and handed her out to Paul Buller, 665 Square St., Mount Joy, and William Rathman of Elizabethtown. Using an on-the-spot, do-it-yourself style approach to first aid, they turned the child heels over head and soon she was revived.

Encourage Child To Responsibility

When the young child asks to help bake cookies or dust furniture, encourage him. Although his assistance may seem more trouble than it's worth, it's during these years that the foundation for later work responsibilities is laid, says Mrs. Marguerite L. Duvall, extension family specialist of Penn State.

As he helps you, the child gains work practice and becomes prepared to do things without being told later on. Praise him and work with him until he feels the need to be independent. If has worked previously with adults, this transition may come at age ten or eleven.

If there isn't a great deal of work to be done in your home, you still can bring up the child with a sense of work responsibility, she points out. When a child works with adults, he learns to get along with them. He also gets supervision that is important while he's learning.

When a child takes part in all phases of a particular project, he'll better understand and respect work. If he helps in all steps involved in meal preparation, his idea of what it's all about will be clearer than if he simply does the dishes after the meal.

How to Douse Fire on Stove

If you are frying food and the grease catches fire, turn off the heat immediately as a first step, the American Insurance Association says.

Then, quickly cover the burning pan with a large, flat cover, using a long-handled fork or pair of kitchen tongs to set it in place, or smother the flames with baking soda or salt, the Association added. Douse it with plenty of soda or salt.

Never use water on a grease fire. Water could cause the burning grease to spatter which could spread the fire.

The key to many a family row is the one that fits the car.
