

Mount Joy Library To Mark National Library Week

April 17 to 23 has been designated as National Library Week.

The dual themes chosen for this year are "Keep Growing . . . Read" and "Know What You're Talking About . . . Read." Whether you are a regular patron of the local library or if you have never visited the library this would be a good time to discover what your library has to offer you.

Among the special events planned by the Mount Joy

Library Center for National Library Week are a window display of Origami, the Japanese art of paper craft, featuring suspended birds and animals, done by John D. Sheppard, art director of Foltz-Wessinger, Inc. in Lancaster. During the war, Sheppard was in Japan, where he met a number of Japanese artists with whom he exchanged art work mostly consisting of woodcuts. Also featured in his exhibit will be some Japanese printing plates showing how four-color printing can be done.

On Tuesday, April 19, story-hour in the library will be held as usual from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. While the children are attending story-hour, Mrs. Alice Heilman, assistant director and head of extension services of the Lancaster Free Public Library, will present a special program for the mothers. Her topic will be "Selecting Books for Children." All the mothers of children attending story-hour and any other interested persons are invited to be present for this program on Tuesday morning.

When you visit the library during National Library week be sure to notice the interesting Art Exhibit featuring the work of some of the art students from the Donegal Annex. Also, say hello to the Library Aides from Donegal high school who will be assisting the regular library volunteers.

have a yearly payroll of approximately one million dollars.

On March 14, NCR took a 90-day option on the site selected but the problem of providing water and sewer lines at that location has been a knotty one until Monday night.

National Cash Register had agreed to provide the necessary cash to build the mains. However, because these facilities are practically always provided on the site by municipalities, NCR wants the costs repaid over a period of time.
