depth of 35 feet under a sandy beach and rocky ledge in Florida, found and given to us by an 86-year-old gentleman who had washed and cleaned them himself. An "antique" of some 20,000 years makes our 100-year-old pressed glass goblets and "snowflake" china blush for shame!

Also, we would have missed seeing this same 86-year-old gentleman jump upon the back of our daughter's brown and white pinto pony, trot away blithely and come cantering swiftly back in a few moments! It was a memorable time!

Shortly after our return home, we had a week-end visitor from South Carolina, a friend of 20 years standing, a Colonel in the U. S. Army Reserves, who was having an "active duty" assignment at Indiantown Gap.

It was interesting to us that the four members of his family—he, his wife, and two sons, one a high school senior and one a sophomore in college, were all separated by at least 500 miles during the time he will be at Indiantown Gap.

Though normally they lead a calm and close-knit life in Aiken, S. C., this summer they are all four in four different states, doing four different, interesting things!

As we have said, Ed is a Colonel in the Army in Pennsylvania. When at home, he is manager of a huge electric "co-op" that serves a big section of South Carolina.

Mabel, his wife, is in Lexington, Ky., working on her master's degree in Home Economics, preparatory to accepting a job teaching this fall in a vocational school near their home in Aiken.

Jim, the high school senior is in Norman, Okla., attending an eight-weeks National Science Institute at the University of Oklahoma, in keeping with his interest in science and his position as #1 student in his class.

Bob, a sophomore at Clemson college, is holding down his first factory job, in Aiken, on the "swing shift" for the experience, and preparatory to going back to college this fall.

Who says people don't do interesting things?

Summer Reading Project

With an enrollment of more than 230 and an average daily attendance of more than 200, the Donegal Summer reading program is under way at Maytown and Grandview schools.

Teachers held a week's workshop, including a one-day session at the Lancaster County Reading Center in East Petersburg.

AT YORK

Reuben Shellenberger spent two days last week in York visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold McMullin.

CHEESE COOKERY

When cooking with cheese, keep the heat low to let the cheese melt completely and spread through the whole dish. Cooking at high heat makes cheese tough and stringy. To speed up melting and blending, Louise Hamilton, Penn State extension foods and nutrition specialist, suggests slicing cheese into small pieces or grating it before heating. Where possible, mix the cheese into a sauce before adding it to other ingredients.

Most people are quite near-sighted when it comes to seeing the handwriting on the wall.
