Donegal Playgrounds Continue Activities

Mount Joy Playground

The fourth week of playground had surprises in store or especially a certain supervisor named Mr. Saurbaugh. Someone should ask him what happened when the senior girls had their overnight hike. How did your car get so nicely decorated, Mr. Saurbaugh.

Because of the weather, the bike rodeo and pet show had to be put off until this week. The hobby show winners were: largest collection, Ken Gephart 3,565, Scott Stark, 1,000, and David Brubaker. The most unusual collections were brought by Rick Hopple, Greg Barninger, and David Schlosser. The most outstanding display was put up by Cindy Gainer, Billy Martin, and Kathy Gephart. The most colorful entries in the hobby show were brought by Michael Shank, Mark Halstead, and Debbie Gainer.

A leather ball tournament found Betty Godshall as the winner. A chess tournament is planned for this week.

Point leaders are: Carol Fackler, Laurie Martin, Betty Godshall, Scott Halstead, Jim Flowers, Ella Gainer, Suzanne Mateer, Debbie Gainer, Gary Bell, Billy Martin, Mike Shank, Sandy Stahl, Debbi-elyn, wife of Paul Landis, of Milton R2; and Lester N., of 1737 Rockvale Road, Lancaster; also 19 grandchildren and a sister, Mabel, wife of Herman Benner, Bareville.

Perry, Maarianne Koser, Rick Hopple, Donald Flowers, and Roger Flowers.

The overnight hike for the boys has been rescheduled for Tuesday night while the girls will camp out on Thursday. A treasure hunt and a scavenger hunt are planned for this week.

Maytown

Pets, children and adults, all had a wonderful time on Tuesday evening at the Pet Fair held by the Maytown Playground. Some 30 pets, including dogs, cats, fish, rabbits, birds, a guinea pig, a horse, mice and a peacock, were on hand, along with their proud owners.

Judges for the event were Mrs. RoAnn Lau, Miss Carolyn Blantz and Mrs. LaVon Harnish.

Winners of blue ribbons at the show were Rosanne Brown and her horse, chosen as "the largest pet"; Gary Mohr and his peacock judged "the most unusual pet"; Terry Haines and her kitten, selected as "the best-dressed pet"; Laurie Leas and her puppy, chosen as "the youngest pet"; Barbara Landis and her dog as "the oldest pet"; Debbie Hollenbaugh and her dog, judged as "the best-trained pet"; William Landis and his dog, selected as the "most well-groomed pet"; Debbie Hay and her 2 kittens picked as "the prettiest cats"; Donna McNaughton and her poodle, chosen as "the cutest dog"; Eva Glattacker and her rabbit, judged "the prettiest rabbit"; Jo Nan Shirk and her fish, awarded as the "smallest pet." All dog and cat owners received free shrinkage between "gross" vs. "net," for most Americans are salaried workers.

The clergyman gets a free parsonage (manse or rectory) added to his $6,000, whereas the others pay full rent.

Howard also has a "free" secretary which the others must pay for out of their $17,500 total gross income.

Howard's office is furnished free by his parishioners, plus his telephone, postage, stationery, desk and furniture.

All these items must be paid for by the mortician, dentist or medic out of that gross income of $17,500.

So the usual doctor or the mortician will not take home more than $6,000 "net" even if he grosses $17,500 annually!

For he also suffers depreciation, obsolescence, professional high insurance fees, etc., etc., so will you clergymen please get hep!
