

Panel Looks At Values

Some of the problems of "Building Moral Values" were discussed in depth by an articulate panel of five people on Monday night, March 13, as the Donegal Education association held an open meeting in the auditorium of the Beahm Junior high school.

Besides Dr. Robert Eshleman, who served as moderator, members of the panel were Dr. David Schlosser, Henry Rutherford, Mrs. Alice Heilman, Rev. Harry A. Freebairn and Roy Longenecker.

Some of the ageless avenues to morality were discussed as were some of the newer approaches. Responsibility of parents, home and church were discussed, as was the importance of "self-worth" in both teacher and pupil; self-discipline, respect for elders, and responsibility of school administration for picking teachers.

The matter of sex education in the schools was explored and several saw a need in the area under carefully guided circumstances, including a religious approach to the subject.

The statement which drew spontaneous applause was that it is a "false belief that values change with the times."

Entertainment was provided by the high school chours which presented a short preview of some of its numbers from the forthcoming production, "Music Man."

Rotarians Hear Uganda Student

Eric A. Karohija, a native Kampala, Uganda, was the speaker Tuesday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Mount Joy Rotary club, held at Hostetters.

A student at Franklin and Marshall college on a 4-year scholarship provided by the government of his homeland, Karuhija showed slides and told of his country and its people.

He had high praise for the Peace Corps and especially for the missionaries in his area. The latter, he said, are the core of the educational system.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Robert Eshleman.

There are a lot of blind men ready to lead the blind.

'Of This and That'

by the editor's wife

This has been an eventful, interesting week in Mount Joy!

In addition to the regular activities of church, school and community, there has been a Science Fair... a concert by 100 young negro singers from a Philadelphia high school... a public auction of antiques at which a fabulous price of $1,475 was paid for a colorful wooden cigar store Indian... a panel meeting of teachers and parents on teaching "values" to school children... and a visit from a top-level man from "NCR" as speaker for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet!

It's not every seven days that bring such a wide variety of interesting activities to our town!

The Science Fair was tremendous! It was breath-taking to walk up and down the aisles and to try to comprehend the breadth and depth

Florin Girl Scouts Observe Annual Birthday Week

Girl Scout Troop 21 (Florin Ward) is celebrating Girl Scout week in a unique way. Since this week is the Birthday of Scouting and birthdays means presents the girls are giving a present to someone else. The troop is sending the Girl Scout magazine, "The American Girl" in Braille to a blind girl for one year. The girls are going to earn the money to pay for the prescription.

Sunday Troop 21 attended Glossbrenner church in uniform and every day for the entire week they have a flag ceremony at Grandview school in the morning and afternoon.

Plans are now being formulated for a camping trip at Camp Echo Trail in May for this troop. They are also working on the Troop Dramatics badge.

Joyce-ettes Hold March Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Joyce-ettes will be held at 7:30 p.m., March 21 at the local V.F.W. Post. Plans for the evening include entertainment and the election of officers.

Also, to be discussed will be final arrangements concerning the Cancer Drive in Mount Joy which will again be conducted by the Joyce-ettes.

The drive will begin on April 1 and continue through April 15. Co-chairmen for the Cancer Drive are Mrs. Charles Wise and Mrs. Dot Mackison.

It's too early to plant 'em, of course!

But it's not too early to begin thinking about getting some petunias in the ground sometime in the not far future.

NCR Building Plans Explained to C.ofC.

If all goes well, a new plant of National Cash Register will be operating in Mount Joy!

That was one of the significant pieces of news revealed Tuesday night, March 14, as the Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting at Hostetters and elected directors for the coming year.

At a meeting of directors held immediately following the banquet, Glenn Y. Forney, a vice-president of the Lancaster County Farmers National bank, was elected and other officers were named.

The speaker of the evening was Charles S. Allen, director of the business forms and supply manufacturing division of NCR, who came to Mount Joy especially to tell the community about his company and about its plans for opening the new plant.

"To 'fill in' members of the Chamber of Commerce and their wives and guests, Allen discussed briefly the 82-year history of NCR, which began somewhat obscurely when a tavern owner built a machine which would discourage his bartender from taking money which rightfully belonged in the cash box of the business.

Later, under the talented management of John H. Patterson, the company grew and developed until now the business grosses nearly $900 million dollars per year and is one of the 25 largest employers in America. Diversification began in the 1940's and now includes computers and wide overseas operations.

The Mount Joy plant, which will be located at the east edge of the borough along Route 230, will be the 9th of NCR to manufacture business forms and supplies across the nation. However, the Ithica, N.Y., is too small, he said, and is being brought here to produce forms for supplying the east coast area. Also, some work now done in the home office plant in Dayton will be sent here, Allen revealed.

The new plant, for which bids are now being taken and for which construction is expected to begin shortly, modern, air-conditioned, attractive and efficient in every way, he said. To give the Mount Joy people an idea as to what to expect, he displayed a full-color artists rendition of what the plant is expected to look like when finished.

Why did NCR come to Mount Joy? Many reasons, Allen said as he named rail and truck transportation facilities. Also important factors were the availability of trainable labor potential, housing, schools, recreational availability, local government.

One hundred to 150 people will be needed to start, he said—about half males—including supervisory personnel some of which will be transferred from other plants.

Wage scales will conform to the prevailing area rates, he said. Whether or not there will be a union, Allen was unable to say. NSR has both union and open shop plants.

The company expects to be a good neighbor and a good citizen of the community, Allen stressed, as he emphasized that a good, harmonious relationship is expected for all concerned. He pointed out that one of NCR mottos is "We are a part of all we have met."

The speaker was introduced by Glenn Y. Forney and Harold K. Keller, retiring president, served as toastmaster.

Directors elected for three-year terms include Floyd Bowden, Robert Kline, Richard Rainbolt, Joseph Schaffer and Simon Nissley. Other officers elected include: Alvin Engle, 1st vice-president; Kline, 2nd vice-president; Nissley, treasurer, and Shaeffer, secretary.

List Science Fair Winners

Science—pure, diligent and humorous—was presented Friday and Saturday evenings, March 10 and 11, in the annual Donegal high school Science Fair.

Every student in school was required to make some kind of presentation.

Topping the show as grand champion in senior high school competition was Mitchell Albert, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Albert, New Haven street. He presented an elaborate report of work called "Alkaloidal Identification, Extraction and Concentration." He has been a consistently high scorer in previous science fairs. He is a senior.

Topping the junior high school division, which held its own show several days earlier, was Carol Zimmerman, south Barbara street. She did her project on "Phototaxis." The Science Fair was presented by the science dept. of Donegal schools, of which Henry Hackman is chairman.

Judges were: Lewis Brown, William Loercher, Emerson Stehman, Paul Coleman and Hackman, all of Donegal; Paul Bucks of McCaskey high school; Dean Steinhart of Elizabethtown high school, and Mrs. Grace Steinmetz of Hempfield high school.

Trophies were presented to first place winners in each division.

Those who placed in the various divisions of the fair were:
