MOUNT JOY, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14, 1967

SEVEN CENTS

Commencements are laced with pleasant incidents which make the event something special in the lives of all who are participants—graduates and parents.

For instance — Thursday night at Donegal's 13th annual commencement, Angelo Albano, president of the board of education presented the diplomas to graduating seniors of the class of 1967.

He did—the program said that he did. And, he did present all but two. They were presented by two other members of the board—Lewis Bixler and Roy Longenecker.

Bixler actually handed out a pair of diplomas, to his twin daughters — Florence and Frances Longenecker, a long-time member of the board, presented a diploma to his daughter, Paula. One of the three girls received a kiss to go with the sheepskin.

Did you see the U.F.O. on Sunday?

One was reported to have buzzed Mechanicsburg. The same evening there were people in the Mount Joy who also saw things in the sky which they could not name.

Whatever they saw, they definitely were 'unidentified.'

And — we're not just being facetious. They actually saw strange, unusual and unidentified objects in the sky. Call 'em fireballs, unusual jets or whatever, they were very different and raised questions in the minds of the viewers the second they saw them.

From Harrisburg comes word that there is activity connected with the building of the Route 230 bypass around Mount Joy. Present plans call for bids to be asked next month on one section of the highway.

Completion still looks as if it may be a Christmas gift to the community in 1969.

Answer Call To Malleable

Friendship Fire company was called Tuesday afternoon, June 13, to the Landisville plant of the Pennsylvania Malleable Iron corporation.

An overflow of superheated metal from a furnace spewed onto the floor and for a time threatened to flow into a water trough, where it would have caused an explosion. Workmen, however, averted the chemical reaction.

Seven workmen received minor burns. None were hospitalized.

TAKES TEACHING POST

Miss Nancy Schlosser, who recently was graduated from Ursinus College at Collegeville, Pa., has accepted a position to teach English Literature next year at St. Margaret's School for Girls at Tappahannock, Va. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David E. Schlosser, E. Main Street.

Named Trustee

Martin Musser, 327 South Market Avenue has been named to the board of trustees of Messiah College, Grantham, Penna.

Dr. D. Ray Hostetter, president of the College, in making the announcement stated that "we are happy to have a man of Mr. Musser's experience and insight to assist in the direction of our institution."

Messiah College, located ten miles from Harrisburg, is a Christian liberal arts college. Founded in 1909, the institution is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Rose Display At Union Bank

An informal "from the garden of" rose display is to be held at the Union National Mount Joy bank on Thursday and Friday of this week.

Between 75 and 100 locally grown roses will be placed on display early Thursday and replacements, if necessary, will be made Friday morning.

Roses from the gardens of Charles Heaps, Lester Hostetter, Simeon Horton, Ruth Shenk and Chas. Reist, and perhaps others, will be featured. Each rose will bear an identification card.

Lions Induct New Officers

The Mount Joy Lions club has installed Robert Schroll as their new president, effective July 1.

Installing officer was Melvin Mentzer, district deputy governor.

District Governor Larry Guth gave a talk on Flight #843. This was a flight from San Francisco to Hawaii. The plane caught fire when only a few minutes in flight. There were 152 passengers aboard. Pictures were taken by Guth and shown on screen of the burning plane. No one was injured in the mishap.

The pilot brought the airplane safely to earth after a hair raising experience. The passengers banded themselves together as a club and hold yearly meetings in Reading, Pa. Most of the passengers were from this area.

Dr. John Stauffer, 101 N. Barbara street, has been elected treasurer of the Vision Conservation Institute of Pennsylvania. He was named at the Annual VCI meeting, held at the Bedford Spring Hotel, Belford, Pa. on May 21st.
