church, Landisville. Rev. took the Mount Joy people on a tour of the area. Miss Anna Wolgemuth told us: "It is unbelievable how they live -in shacks witr grass roofs and mud floors-doing their cooking over improvised fireplaces. Everyone goes barefooted, and clothing is at a minimum. Almost everyone wears white—and it is really snowy white, too-which is amazing, considering their washing methods!'

She continued: "One of the women, through our interpreter, begged us to take her back to Pennsylvania with us! We told her that they were having pretty cold weather up there right now, and that in the winter it gets freezing cold and snows a

"She said, 'Then I think I stay here!' "

Last fall we mentioned a dozen or so homes in Mount outstanding. This fall we will the front of the box in a particularly pleasing and artistic manner.

At many other Mount Joy homes, the petunias are beautiful, too-but there are so many that we hesitate to try to enumerate them!

This weekend, on Saturday and Sunday, are the annual autumn Craft Days at Landis Valley Museum. It's a rare privilege we have, living so close that we can take advantage of this fascinating event.

We can smell the apple butter simmering, the bread baking in the outdoor ovens, and see the "smithy", the candlemaker, and all the other old-time craftsmen at

Then the next week end is the Pennsylvania National Horse Show in the Farm Show arena at Harrisburg -and the next weekend (Oct. 21) the Lancaster County Day Tour, with seven or eight of its homes in the Mt, Joy area.

Truly, it's a fabulous area in which we live!
