

Miss Teen Age

... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. One of our favorite teachers is going to be married at Christmas time. Several of us would like to get her a gift, but don't have much money. Any suggestions?

A. Any teacher would be pleased and proud to have such thoughtful students, and the expense of the gift won't be important. Why not collect several practical household items for her? Start with a plastic laundry basket and fill it with rolls of Kleenex paper towels, kitchen detergent, clothes pins, a scrub brush, dish drainer, and so on. Every item will be used and appreciated!

Q. Boots are back again, and I'd like to make my last-year's pair make do. They are still good boots, but they look pretty run down. Know any first-aid for old boots?

A. That's sound money-saving thinking! Follow these steps to like-new boots: Put them on and dust them with a Kleenex paper towel. Then wipe them with a damp towel. Let dry. Add a leather cream or saddle soap to another towel and work it into the leather. Stuff the boots with paper towels overnight to shape them. If they are a neutral color, that's probably all you need. If they are black or brown, add shoe polish for the final shine. Throw away the paper towels and you have new-looking boots with a minimum of clean-up!

Q. I just can't sit still long enough to get any studying done. My grades show it! I get restless, then go after a snack, look for books, and then the phone rings. What can I do?

A. Set up a special place for study and keep your supplies there. Then, set aside a time for study — say from 7 to 9 o'clock each evening. Tell your friends you'll be happy to talk with them on the phone before or after. If someone calls during your study time, tell him politely to call later or that you will call back. If you're physically restless, plan a period for exercising before you settle down to study. That's about all you can do except try to get really interested in studying. You might find you forget all about the problems.

liamsport. The public is invited to this observance and open house.

St. Lukes Marks All Saints Day

All Saints' Day, one of the important Holy Days of the Episcopal Church year will be observed on Wednesday, Nov. 1. The Rev. Donald Moore Whitesel, Rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, S. Market St. and Columbia Ave today announced the schedule of service for that occasion.

There will be two celebrations of the Holy Communion in St. Lukes church, one at 7 a.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m. Both services will be identical. On that day all the saints known and unknown are remembered at the Altar. It is requested that anyone wishing prayers to be said for departed loved ones give those names to Father Whitesel prior to the services. All faithful members of the Parish are expected to attend one of the services.

The flowers on the Altar will be to the Glory of God and in loving memory of Miss Amy Ferrier.

The Annual Parish Halloween Party at St. Luke's will be held Sunday, Oct. 29 beginning at 6:30 p.m. All the members are invited to attend. Mrs. Robert Eno is Chairman for the event.
