

Bike Battle Action Lost In Council

The Buckius bicycle battle came to a silent end Tuesday night at Borough Council meeting.

Although James Buckius, Donegal Springs Road, had fought a good fight to have the Mount Joy borough bicycle ordinance revamped, his efforts to date have been to no avail.

Tuesday night he showed councilmen a movie in full color and presented one of the area's most popular state police officers—Trooper Grazer. Previously Buckius had presented the council with a petition bearing many names in which he proposed to allow bike riders under 12 yrs. of age on smaller size cycles ride on selected residential streets.

However, Monday — after full debate — his cause was lost for the want of a second to a motion to alter the present 'No Riding on the Sidewalks' regulation.

Councilman John Day III proposed to accept the Buckius proposal with the stipulation that the age be reduced to 10 years.

Then followed the fatal silence. There were seven other councilmen present but there was no second to the motion.

At council's October meeting, Mayor Frank Walter had clearly stated his position on the matter, saying that the present bicycle ordinance has had good acceptance and that he sees no reason to change it.

Police Chief J. Bruce Kline Tuesday night of this week told the council that he and the mayor (who was not present at the meeting) recommend that there be no change.

Buckius previously had stated that he would not be thwarted in his attempt to allow limited bike riding on the sidewalks and he told the council Monday night following their decision that he may attempt to push the matter to a higher source—the state legislature.

'Native Sons' Given Good Vote In Mount Joy

Mount Joy voters were generous to their two native sons who appeared Tuesday on the county ballot for public offices.

One is an attorney, the other a doctor.

Both Clarence C. Newcomer, candidate for district attorney, and Dr. Newton E. Kendig, candidate for coroner, running as Republicans received nearly 100 more votes than other Republican County candidates. Thus about that number of Mount Joy Democrats crossed their tickets to give their support to two home town men.

A survey of other county offices indicate that the GOP in Mt. Joy polled about 900 votes. Newcomer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Newcomer, south Market street, received 980 against 209 for his Democratic opponent — Robert M. Goings.

Dr. Kendig, Mount Joy physician had 969 votes in the borough's three wards against 225 for Democrat Franklin K. Cassel.

Both men were elected to office, following the general voting trend of the county for all row offices on the ballot this election.

Donna Charles In College Choir

Among those chosen to sing with the Millersville State college choir is Miss Donna Charles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur B. Charles, 822 Bruce avenue.

She is one of only four Millersville students from Lancaster county who was chosen.

Miss Charles, a graduate of Donegal high school, sings soprano. A sophomore, she is majoring in elementary education.

All four countians will appear with the 90-voice choir on Sunday, Nov. 19, in a performance of the third portion of Handel's "Messiah," to be given at the college.

His father served with the navy in World War II and his grandfather, Leon Graham now living at Hyattsville, Md., was in the same branch of the service in World War I.

Voters Turn Thumbs Down on Manager

Mount Joy does not want a borough manager!

The issue was decided rather decisively Tuesday by voters in all three wards as they cast their ballots almost two to one against the establishment of the office.

The count showed 606 people voting against and 336 speaking for the proposal which was placed on the ballot at the request of the Borough Council.

Long a matter discussed and debated, the proposition, was set before the people by Council to give guidance to whatever action it might take. While the Tuesday ballot is not binding upon Council, it is not likely that the clear wishes of the people will be violated within the immediate future.

Observers believe that the people of the community felt that a manager would cost more than he would save or more than he could deliver in added or better services. People, generally, felt that the manager would force an increase in taxes.

The same feeling of financial fear also was blamed for Mount Joy's vote against the creating of a county health office. The three wards voted 444 against and 366 for.

However, it is worth noting that although nearly 1200 people voted in Mount Joy, only 942 voted on the borough manager proposition and 810 on the proposal to create the health office.

By wards, this is how the borough voted on the borough manager:

Ward	Yes	No
East	124	229
West	129	236
Florin	83	141
Totals	336	606

Worthy of note, too, is the fact that totals appear to have nothing to do with party alliances.

Republicans, as party voters, cast about 900 ballots. Democrats appeared to have had about 250 hard core party voters.

The borough manager question was the single issue on the ballot this election which concerned all voters in the borough exclusively.

Council Remains G.O.P.

Mount Joy's Borough Council, as a result of Tuesday's general election, will remain exclusive Republican.

Voters named James E. Spangler in the East ward and Warren H. Foley in the West ward as new members of the group and returned to their seats Paul Little, East ward, and James A. Madara, Florin ward.

These four, who will take office January 1, will join Simeon Horton and Clark Berrier of the West Ward, Geo. Groff of the East Ward and Harry Farmer Jr., and Albert Kleiner of the Florin ward to form the new council.

The nine will select their own president at their semi-annual reorganization session, the first meeting in 1968.

Here is how the ballots were cast for Council Tuesday:

East Ward	West Ward	Florin Ward
Spangler (R) 337	Foley (R) 326	Irvin H. Smith (D) 146
Little (R) 339	Madara (R) 226	Wilbur B. Charles 53

James A. Tierney (D) . . . 113
West Ward
Foley (R) 326
Irvin H. Smith (D) 146
Florin Ward
Madara (R) 226
Wilbur B. Charles 53

Street Project Completed

Mount Joy's 1967 summer street program was the most ambitious in borough's history, Council was told Tuesday night.

Simeon Horton, street committee chairman, reporting that the program is virtually completed for this year, told other councilmen that approximately $28,000 worth of work has been done this summer.

This includes both contractor's and engineer's fees. Seventeen separate streets and alleys have been given some kind of improvement, he said. During the meeting he discussed with council what to expect next summer.

Present plans call for Wood street to be at the top of the list for 1968 improvement. Presently, council expects to start at Chocolate avenue and work westward to the old Farm Bureau building or possibly to the borough line at Spookey Hill road.

Council voiced intent to require curbs along the length of the improvement.

Horton also told council that a new survey of accidents at the Eberle cemetery curve on Marietta avenue has been made and that he expects to appeal to the state for some kind of correctional steps to help prevent additional accidents.

Council Tuesday night named Dr. Newton E. Kendig borough health officer to succeed Dr. Thomas O'Connor, who has resigned.

Council specified that the health officer is to serve without compensation but that Warren Hayman will receive fees to "do the leg work" of the department.

Council also received a petition signed by nearly a score of people living in the area near the New Standard plant. They asked that council abate noise which originates in the plant and which they charge has become a nuisance.

Council President George Groff named himself and Albert Kleiner and Horton as a committee to confer with the New Standard management concerning the problem.

Vote Church Enlargement

The Congregation of Chiques Methodist church approved preliminary plans for the construction of a 10-room addition to the Church School Educational Building on Sunday evening, Nov. 5.

Rev. George Norman Hipel, Lancaster, West District superintendent of the Methodist church, presided.

The addition has been made necessary by increased attendance at Church School. Classes are now meeting on a temporary basis in the sanctuary, kitchen, pastor's study and parsonage. With the addition of the ten rooms, all church school classes will be housed in the educational wing of the church. The new rooms to be constructed will include: Toddler's, two nurseries, two kindergartens, a room for each of the first four grades of elementary school, and a church school office.

The new construction will be of contemporary design with 5,500 square feet of space on two floors. It will be attached to the north side of the present Educational Unit. Groundbreaking is scheduled for Easter. The architect, George D. Savage, Narberth, estimates that the building will cost $60,000.

The trustees to whom the erection of the building was entrusted by the congregation include: George T. Butzer, chairman, Benjamin K. Hess, Clair M. Mark, Jay M. Mueller Jr., Larry M. Roth, G. Walter Sloan, Joseph G. Whitacre, Ray N. Wiley Sr., and Charles E. Aument.

To Activate Substation

A new, high-capacity substation is to be dedicated on Friday, Nov. 17, at Landisville by the Pennsylvania Power & Light Company.

The substation, to furnish more and better service in this immediate area, is located south of Route 230, immediately north of the Pennsylvania railroad from the Salunga park and pavilion.

There will be a brief ceremony of throwing the switch to place the equipment in service, followed by a luncheon at a Rohrerstown restaurant.
