Mount Joy has gone through that one the hard way only recently.

The total problem of whether or not the borough is going to extend its service beyond its limits is one which is becoming more gritty by the month.

It's beginning to appear that some of the old patterns of community expansion are going to come under the microscope.

The state very well may force boroughs to extend sewers to nearby residential developments, which then would also mean schools and industrial developments.

How is Mount Joy going to approach this problem? It is a question well worth discussion now. Decisions and ideas now may be more valuable than those made when the heat is on for a quick change because of some special situation which is certain to arise sometime in the future.

Mount Joy has had tremendous success in the past few years with some of its developments and there is every reason to believe that others are possible.

But, the atmosphere is changing and Mount Joy, its policies, state attitudes and new laws are going to have a heavy bearing upon what comes next.

With the coming of daylight saving time, longer evenings and the approach of summer vacation for prep school boys and girls, the subject of curfews seems appropriate.

Although the clocks were changed recently to provide more daylight, there is no change in the Mount Joy curfew time. Boys and girls who are under 16 years of age are, by law, to be off the streets by 10 o'clock on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. On Friday and Saturday nights the time is 11 p.m.

The 10 and 11 o'clock times are daylight saving time. Police Chief Kline emphasizes. When the time changes to standard time, the curfew time still is 10 and 11 o'clock, Standard time!

And, to add what most every youngster already knows — an auto driver with a junior license (one which is held by drivers 16 to 18 years) is not allowed to drive between midnight and 5 a.m.

To confuse the two laws is a mistake. Just because the state has a midnight deadline does not mean that in Mount Joy a youngster has a midnight curfew. The local ordinance stands at 10 and 11 p.m., the chief says.

In this week's bulletin are the announcements that two of Mount Joy's ministers are leaving to take pulpits in other areas.

This brings the number of pastoral changes in the community to four. Although one other is not until this summer and the other in the fall, Rev. Harry A. Freebairn and Rev. Howard Bernhard will be accepting other calls.

tent to "manpower." In addition to the proposed, new 65-mill real estate tax, school money raised locally, according to the Tuesday night budget action, will include a 3/4 percent wage tax, a 1 per cent real estate transfer tax and a pair of $5 head tax assessments.

During preliminary discussions on the budget, there was talk of the possibility of levying some kind of an occupation tax. However, the possibility was rejected.

It was pointed out that each mill of real estate taxation now raises $10,548 in local funds.

One stipulation placed on the tentative budget is that if further studies find an imbalance, cuts to level the fiscal outlook will be taken from the operating expenses.

As a closing piece of business, Angelo Albano gave fellow board members an official verbal resignation from the body. He said that as of June 8 he plans to close his drug store in Marietta and to take a job. He added that he also expects that he will not be living in the Donegal district.

Appointed to the board Jan. 16, 1964, Albano served as president in 1967.

Replacement will be considered at the board's next meeting.

During its Thursday night meeting, May 16, the board heard an hour's discussion about the coming vocational-technical school, lead by Harry Kraft, school director, and Dan Beamensderfer, assistant county superintendent of schools.

Principal interest of the board centered in the philosophy which the vo-tech people hold concerning the admission of boys and girls.

The school will accept one "half day about" basis, thereby putting pupils in their home high schools half a day and in the vo-tech school half days. This arrangement will provide, schoolmen said, better scheduling and a retained identity with the home school by the boys and girls.

The full course structure, as presently set up, will offer 31 areas of instruction — 17 of which will be offered in the Mount Joy school. Seven of the 31 will be technical areas, all of which will be given only at the Willow Street school.

Donegal's "quota" as the schools open will be 104 pupils. The number is set by formula which involves the number of 9th, 10th and 11th grade students enrolled in each school in proportion to the total number of youngsters in the same grades in the entire county.

However, the "quotas" are not a rigid number, Kraft said. Numbers may vary as needs and availabilities arise.

One of the basic guiding principals to be used in admission of boys and girls into the vo-tech schools, the board was told, will concern what greatest benefits can be afforded to the pupils as a means of competing effectively with a trade, skill or art in the adult economy in which they will find themselves.

One of the critical areas of approach to the vo-tech system will be the careful guidance need to offer the best for the most, leaving the door open for all students to shift and make changes as their adolescent growth may change their aims, objectives and needs. One of the features of the system will be to offer a wide range of interests and opportunities.

Bids for building construction at three sites are expected to be opened June 13, 20 and 27.

At Marietta - News Notes

Proceeds for the event will be used first of all to restore the entrance area to the Sultzbach House, the first project of its kind attempted by members of the Associates which was purchased in 1967. After careful research heating, plumbing and electricity will be concealed and installed at the proper places. As the rear section appears to be of an earlier period it is assumed the front was built later although no evidence is presently available to confirm this fact. The exterior is clapboard over logs which are sound however a pent will be added to the front of the house. Dindaws with small panes will replace the present frames and dormers will be relocated in the attic.

Investigation as to woodwork and plaster, original partitions and the best place to install each will be a long range program. When the dwelling is so called livable it will be used as a headquarters for the restoration group and mementos it has assembled.
