Mr. Garber is retired from the Federal Soil Conservation

The couple have five children. They are Ellen K. Garber, State College, Pa., Mrs. Robert K. Brown, Mount Joy, Mrs. Orval P. Lovett, Newark, Del., Dr. Norman K. Garber, Suffern, N. Y. and Simon K. Garber, Washington, Pa. They have nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

★ Of This and That

"10-wide", 50-foot mobile home! How times have changed!

Mary (Mrs. Paul) Fitzkee had a fine trip to California to visit her sister. She saw Disneyland, the Lincoln Memorial where the figure of Lincoln "comes alive", moves and talks, the Queen Mary, and many other interesting things.

The three-day and two-night bus trip out to Los Angeles was tiring, Mary said, but the flight back to Pittsburgh by jet was wonderful. "Except that it was a little bumpy now and then, and my ears stopped up from the very high altitude," Mary said.

Another "small world" item: The newlyweds in our family were having lunch in a nice restaurant last week on the highway between Los Angeles and San Francisco. A bus pulled up out in front and the people began coming in. Among the first were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Weaver of Mount Joy! It was a surprised foursome that had a happy reunion 3,000 miles from home!

Keeping to the right of the road originated in the U. S. with the men who drove the Conestoga wagons in the 1800's. Because they rode the "Lazyboard"—an oak plank between the left wheels from where they could guide the horse and operate the brake—they had to drive on the right in order to have a clear view.

Attended Conference

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Shirk, Bainbridge R1, are attending a 5-day conference from July 7 thru 11 in Portland, Oregon, of the International Assoc. of Official Human Rights Agencies. His capacity as executive director of the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission enables him to be an authority in this field where he has served as chief officer of the Pennsylvania Commission since it was established in 1956, as the Penna. Fair Employment Practice Commission. Shirk served as chairman of the planning committee for the 15th annual Conference of Commissions for Human Rights held in 1963 in Pittsburgh.

Many of the city, state and national laws and ordinances in the field of civil rights, now so widely accepted and adopted were first advocated and proven feasible by Shirk and his fellow pioneers in the field of human relations.

Before being appointed to his position with the commission 12 years ago, Shirk helped to bring about the establishment of the state agency, serving first as field director of the Governor's Commission on industrial Race Relations and later as executive director of the State Council for the Penna. FEPC.

His previous experience was in the field of social service work having been a field representative for the American Red Cross in New York State from '41 to '45 and director of operations for the Red Cross in the Soviet Union from '44 to '46. He directed activities of the inter governmental Committee on Refugees in the U. S. Displaced Persons Commission in 1949. He became director of resettlement for the same commission in Washington D.C. from 1950 to the close of the program. Assistant to the director of the Presidents Commission on Immigration and Naturalization detained the subject until 1953.

Mr. Shirk will officially retire on July 15 from his present position however he plans to write and devote time to farming at his home near Bainbridge.

Diversified Income Aids Retirement Plan

Diversifying your retirement income sources is one answer to planning real financial security for retirement, says Helen E. Bell, extension home management specialist of Penn State.

A diversified income plan has some fixed dollar investments and some investments of the equity or growth type. Fixed dollars are for "peace of mind." They're a source of income you can count on regardless of changes in the economy between now and your retirement. Savings accounts, government bonds, insurance policies, social security, and company pension plans are some good examples of fixed dollars.

Fixed dollars, however, can't stand alone to secure your future in the face of inflation, Miss Bell points out. Inflation has been rising at the rate of 2 percent a year, until the last six to eight months when it went to 4 percent. The growth investment side of the diversified income plan helps cope with this rising cost of living. Real estate, a well-managed business or farm, or stocks and some types of bonds all have values that will rise with inflation to give you a growth income.

Retirement income will likely be made of bits and pieces from here and there, according to Miss Bell. If you begin now to estimate your future needs and what you will have to meet those needs, your retirement plan will be better coordinated. When you have a clear picture of your assets, you'll be ready to decide which to use for income and which to keep as cash for emergencies. Early planning allows you to check the tax aspects of your assets and this could save you money. With a diversified income, you will have some reserves regardless of the economic situation as well as some to keep you up-to-date with the times, she adds.

PESTICIDES REGULATIONS CHANGE

It is a good habit to keep up to date on regulations for using pesticides, caution extension specialists at Penn State university. Regulations governing the legal use of some pesticides have changed from year to year. If in doubt, contact your county agent.

Rotarians Hear Norway Guest

Miss Liv Hegna of Oslo, Norway, made her first visit to the Mount Joy Rotary club Tuesday noon at its weekly luncheon meeting, held at Hostetters.

In the community for a 2-months stay, she is here under the sponsorship of the Rotary club as part of the Experiment in International Understanding movement.

She will visit in the homes of various members of the club and will have an opportunity to see and experience a wide variety of activities in this country.

Miss Hegna talked about her trip to America and explained that she and others from abroad were given several days of instruction and introduction in New York and then toured Washington, where she was met by Dr. and Mrs. David Schlosser, in whose home she is visiting this week.

She also has already spent a few days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Gible.

Miss Hegna is a sociology major, having received her master's degree a year ago. Also on the Tuesday program was John Booth, who in his own inimitable fashion, talked about the current issue of the Rotarians' national magazine, "The Rotarian."
