HOMECOMING

The annual homecoming services will be conducted in the God's Missionary church located on Main street in Salunga, on Sunday, Sept. 1, with services at 9:30 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

This day marks the second anniversary of the opening of the church by the pastor, Rev. John F. White.

The special workers for the day will be the Reverend Howard Frey of Sunbury, Pa., as the speaker, and the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Weaver of Penn View Bible College as the singers.

Rev. Frey is the pastor of the Wesslyn church of Sunbury for the past 20 years.

The Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Weaver are able singers. Mrs. Weaver sings solos. They will be singing the old fashion hymns of the church.

The church has grown much in the past two years and is now organized as a full church of the God's Missionary church conference.

In these two years, a parsonage has been purchased in Landisville for the pastor, a new Werlitzer electric organ, has been placed in the church, wall to wall carpet installed and many other improvements were made.

The church conducts a camp meeting in late June on the Landisville camp meeting grounds, is supporting the Shuey Missionary family in Florida and has a good youth program.

The public is invited to all services.

Cycle Riders Begin Taking Examinations

Colonel Frank McKetta, Commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police, announced today that Driver Examination Points will begin testing operators of Motorcycles, Motor Bikes, and Motor Scooters on Sept. 3.

Under the recent legislation signed by Governor Shafer it will be mandatory for those driving such vehicles to pass a special examination on their qualifications to operate them. While the act becomes effective on Sept. 13, the State Police will offer the test beginning the 3rd in order that those who have licenses expiring on September 30 will have ample time to comply to the new law.

Under the new examination program all new operators will be tested when they apply for their initial license if they desire to operate a motorized cycle, scooter, or bike. Current operators driving such vehicles will be tested when their license comes up for renewal. No operator need apply until their present license comes up for renewal. Operators must bring their motorcycle, motor bike, or motor scooter to the Driver Examination Point when taking the test.

Rotary Hears from Doctors

"The Vanishing Breed" was the subject of the program Tuesday noon for Mount Joy Rotarians, presented at Hostetters by three doctors, all members of the club.

Dr. David Schlosser was the principal speaker, supported with auxiliary comments by Drs. Thomas W. O'Connor and Richard Bryson.

The vanishing breed referred to general practice doctors, whose number is rapidly declining across the country.

Dr. Schlosser said that the days of the private solo practitioner are drawing to a close. Twenty-five years ago, he said, 75 per cent of medical college graduates became general practice men and 25 percent went into other fields of medicine. Now, he revealed, the figures are exactly opposite and moving fast.

Although general practice continues to provide a rewarding sense of service to his fellow men, the young men of today are not interested in the long hours, heavy work loads and the accompanying problems.

Today, in Mount Joy area, he revealed, doctors carry a heavier case load than the national average. Statistics indicate that, nationally, by 1973, there will be 17 percent more people and that doctors' patient load will increase 20 percent. Need for medical care is growing at both ends of the life cycle, the children under five and people over 65.

The drain from the field of general practice is too many non-private fields, Dr. Schlosser said, mentioning military, veteran administration, public health service, industrial practice; teaching and research, increasing specialists, hospital emergency arrangements and even the peace corps.

The loss of doctors has resulted in fewer house calls, increased office work, curtailment of advance study, mountainous paper work, etc., the speaker reported.

While speaking of fees, he disclosed that about 50 percent of doctors' fees are paid by a third party (insurance or government) and the estimate is that by 1973 it will be 80 percent.

It was the speaker's opinion that very soon only half the general practice physicians will have solo offices. He has the feeling that some kind of town clinic or area clinic arrangement may be the answer to providing medical care in the small towns.

The program was introduced by Charles O. Groff.
