Mr. Richard Rainbolt
Editor of Mount Joy
Bulletin

Dear Sir,

Two local men were humiliated last week by uncalled for publicity toward a misunderstanding of migratory waterfowl laws. I refer to the "Sico" duck shooting incident. They acknowledge an unwitting violation, and ask no one's pity. They do have reason to resent the statement: "Ducks Cost Two Hunters $750.00 Fine" Practically classifying them as common poachers, instead of responsible members of the community whose action was entirely in good faith.

I lived along the creek

all my life. As a boy I seldom saw a duck on the Chiques, not even during spring and fall migration. During the last generation many private ponds, and more ambitious semi-public efforts have made the mallard duck a year-round resident in nearly all communities.

I tried it myself, but to make the story short and conclusive, snapper turtles and coons were hard on the young ducks, and hunters in the fall cleaned out the survivors.

The Sico duck project at Mount Joy was more successful. Under this management, and security, the flock multiplied and fanned out over the countryside. Many communities benefitted by the overflow. Any passer-by can see that the local area is over-stocked at present, probably becoming a nuisance to nearby property owners.

This writer is not critical of our game laws. Wildlife needs protection—and some regulation. Obviously regulation should be supervised by the proper authorities. I am not condoning violation. I do contend that in this case there are several extenuating circumstances.

1. There would be few ducks on Lancaster county streams without private initiative — maybe none.

2. The Company which these men represent spends thousands of dollars on the duck project, a Community interest.

3. They are not 'pot hunters' but were performing a public service. Eliminated the drakes only.

4. The ducks were donated to an institution or deservng individuals.
