on, are responsible to us in this and many areas.

The laws legislate for our young men to be drafted. This is then a form of limiting a person and his life. Since this is operating in this great nation why not limit wealth. How would we approach it; well legislate that all persons with $500,000,000 or more worth of wealth turn it over to the government. Next year all persons with $100,000,000 or more turn it over to the government. The next year reduce it to $10,000,000 and so on. Next step, allow inheritance only to $10,000 per person that can be given away. We know that by this time some one reading this will shout "Socialism" but we say no, just limited capitalism. For example, everyone is still able to be engaged in free enterprise until he becomes a millionaire. At that time he turns his ownership over to the government and he receives a weekly check, say for $1,000, and that is all his to spend! But you say how could all this be figured out!

A good question, but keep in mind we are in a great technological age and before long all the monetary structures will be using computers so the machines will be able to work out the figure problem. If we were to be lecturing our President then at this time we would raise a finger and point to him, saying "You were raised a Quaker with a stress on moral science." You, Richard M. Nixon, have big burdens to bear. Don't get lost in the fog with the super rich. Keep in mind the moral concern about wealth as you exemplified when you unveiled your net worth in the race against Jack Kennedy.

As an ordained Clergyman we can say, Richard, God has made you alive in troubled times. You have to stop the killing in Asia, then consider the needs of the home front just mentioned. We trust that you begin and end each day with prayer and meditation with the Almighty God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

Dear Sir:
Your editorial on BB (Big Brother, published Aug. 27, '69) is a bit out in left field.

What the Brother objects to in cigarette advertising is the suggestion or implication that cigarettes, or a brand of cigarettes, can help make you anything from a snake dancer to a baseball hero.

Brother is being pressured into this position by thousands of letters from consumers who are being nauseated by the way cigarettes hog all the advertising media, and with mostly damn lies, and getting away with it. Consumers are pressuring the FTC which has been dragging its feet and they are pressuring the Congress to pressure the FTC, and pressuring the White House to pressure the Congress.

Even tho it has been abundantly shown that cigarette smokers age for age have higher death rates than non-smokers, there is no way to prove that death in an individual case is caused by smoking. Its sort of like the death rate being higher in pedestrians who cross the street than in those who stay on the same side; death is caused not by crossing the street but by being hit with a car.

You can advertise cigarettes; just dont pretend they will do something they won't do.

Sincerely,
Burchard E. Wright, M.D.

A miracle knife that cuts frozen foods is being advertised. We'd prefer one that cuts frozen prices.
