

Life With The Rimples

Over The Back Fence

By Max Smith

— AGAIN we repeat the need for more attention to the control of rats on many farms and in many communities; it would require pages to list the potential damage that rats can do, not mentioning the great health hazard. Therefore, it is the responsibility of every property owner to try and eliminate every rat. A good clean-up program followed by good sanitation practices is the place to start. If the place is kept clean and free from all types of junk and filth, there will be fewer places for the rats to live and make nests; this will mean pointing walls and foundations and concreting many places where the rats can dig under and live. This kind of a program along with several poison bait station will go toward complete rat control. Don't try to live with them; they will do considerable damage and should be exterminated.

Prayer Of The Week - - -

The evening prayer this week is a Family Prayer:

"Abide with us, O Lord, this night, that the brightness of Thy love may be around us, and that the darkness be not dark. Abide with us, O Lord, this night, for in loneliness we are not alone if Thou be nigh. Abide with the sick, the sorrowful, the forsaken, and the weary, O Lord, to strengthen, to comfort, to cheer, and to give rest. Shield us all from that darkness of the soul which seeth Thee not, that loneliness of the heart which heareth not Thy voice. Abide with us through life, and in the valley of the shadow of death forsake us not, but bid us be of good courage, for Thou art with us still. Blessing and glory and thanksgiving be unto Thee, O God, forever. Amen."

Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Hock-20 years. He is now retired, enberry, Sr., 118 East Main but still carries on his duties as Justice of the Peace.

They are the parents of three children: James E. Hockenberry, Jr., Betty, wife of William J. DeCarlton, of Mount Joy R1, and Helen, wife of Winfield Hendrix, of Mount Joy. They also have five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Members of Mrs. Hockenberry's Sunday School Class, the Good Cheer Class, attended the drop-in as a group. The couple are members of the Glosbrenner United Methodist church, Mt. Joy.

Mrs. Hockenberry is the former Esther Weber, and has been a lifelong resident of Mount Joy. Hockenberry, a resident of Mount Joy since 1917, has been well known in the area as a Justice of the Peace for the last 30 years. He worked at the Florin Foundry for 16 years and at the Marietta Depot

DURING the past several weeks I have noticed many farmers shredding and harvesting their corn stalks for bedding purposes; this is a good idea and will utilize all the corn stalks while being able to return them to the soil after they have gone through the borns. Shredded corn stalks are very good bedding and very good to absorb moisture from the stables. If the crop had a heavy corn borer infestation, the shredding will help kill this insect. The seeding of a cover crop, such as Winter rye, on the field will help control both wind and soil erosion this winter.

Speaker Coming From Holland

The Rev. John A. Visser, Amsterdam, Holland, will be guest speaker, both Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock and evening at 7:30 p.m. worship services, at Calvary Bible church, Donegal Heights.

Rev. Visser is the founder of the largest Baptist church in his nation's capital, and its pastor for 20 years. Five years ago he entered faith mission work and has worked in Spain, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Hungary, Italy, France, Ireland, England and Holland.

In recent years he was arrested by Russian officials. His car was confiscated for carrying Bibles.

Roll Barrel To Hempfield

The event took place at the Mount Joy Legion on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The Mount Joy JayCees presented the barrel to the Hempfield Jaycees and then presented a skit explaining all of the Mount Joy Jaycees' projects and activities.

Mount Joy Jaycee president Jim Gingerich presented the barrel to Hempfield Jaycees' president William Thomas.

The greatest discovery of my generation is that human beings can alter their lives by altering their attitudes of mind. —William James

If a man could travel at the speed of light, he'd still have to waste three hours getting to and from the time machine.

THE PRACTICE of providing free choice of salt for livestock is a very common practice and is a good one; however, I feel that loose salt would be better than block salt; research work shows that many animals will get a sore tongue from licking the block of salt before they can get sufficient salt. Maximum salt intake is important for high water consumption and more efficient production of either milk or weight. The placing of loose salt in a box out of the weather, where the animals have access to it at all times is strongly recommended.

FLAG RAISING

The first official raising of the new 50-star American flag pole at the east and west fronts of the national Capitol. At the same hour, the new flag was raised over Ft. McHenry National Monument in Baltimore, Md., the birthplace of the national anthem.

for many years, has been honored by having the new college Research and Learning Center named for him when it was dedicated Saturday, Oct. 4.

To be known as the Stayer Research and Learning Center, the building is an elementary school for 140 youngsters. It will serve as an observation facility for Millersville students and faculty. One of the features is classrooms with one-way glass, making it possible to watch classroom activities without the disruption of having visitors inside the room to upset the teacher-student relationship.

Stayer, who retired in '53, served the college as chairman of the department of education and for 26 years was director of the Millersville college training school.

Mrs. Stayer is a daughter of the late Harry N. Nissly.

Last week we used the names of several former Mt. Joy mayors (called burgesses at the time they served).

They include Martin Bowman, H. C. Schock, George Brown, Jacob Schrite and Clayton 'Demmy' Hoffman. The latter two were Democrats.
