EDITORIALS ---

Something keeps telling me that we could win if we had Lou Gehrig in the lineup!

We need him and the stuff of which he was made.

We need the image of working, plugging, suffering. We need even more his success and his winning ways.

But, what we need most of all is to have a hero like Lou!

So, if we could just get Lou Gehrig, the hero, on our team, maybe we could do better. In fact, if we could get all the heroes, wherever they are, back on the team, things would be going along more smoothly.

One of our problems is that not many youngsters probably know who Gehrig is (or, should we say was?) The late Gehrig was so much a person and is so much a hero that it is hard to think of him as was. He actually, in the minds of middle aged Americans, still IS!

Most any kid these days knows about a certain Broadway bum who tosses forward passes every weekend for a professional football team.

But, we wonder seriously if the guy, Joe, is worthy of a hero's place with growing youngsters.

Haven't we filled the hero places on our team with a bunch of second raters? Haven't we done about everything we can to cut down, chew up and spit out our heroes?

Wouldn't it be better if we would cling to some of our heroes—especially our national ones—and try again to fill the all-star teams in the minds of our boys and girls with honest, American heroes who had things to say like, "Don't give up the ship," "I regret that I have only one life to give for my country" and "I'd rather be right than president"?

Sounds "corny," you say? But it sure beats the declarations of long-haired Joe who seems to think that if he is buddy buddy with questionable characters the world should applaud.

Perhaps America these days is reaping the harvest of its "cut down the heros" era of a few years ago. It is just possible that the now disturbed and militant section of our society is the very group which had its heros cut away from it in its impressionable, growing up years.

Maybe we need again to put the heros back on our team, to trot out the all-stars who believe in playing hard, playing fair, working hard and achieved, even if it is not easy.

We need Gehrig back on the team. P.S. —Dad, tell the boy about old Lou. You'll be a better man because you thought about that indomitable Yankee again and your son will be a better boy if you can get him thinking about winning — like Lou Gehrig.)

FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS

No man is an island entire of itself. Every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main. If a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less, as well as if a promontory were, as well as if a manor of thy friends or of thine own were. Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind. Therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls. It tolls for thee.

★ Letters to the Editor ★

Monday, Nov 10

Editor
Mount Joy Bulletin
Sir:

On Monday, Nov. 10th, I had the distinct pleasure of being a chaperone to accompany the Senior Class of Donegal high school, to the Buck's County theatre, to see a performance of "Macbeth".

What a delightful day it proved to be!

The comportment of these young people on the bus, in the restaurant where we stopped for a meal, and in the theatre was impeccable.

They were a warm and receptive audience. This is a senior class of ladies and gentlemen! Their instructors and parents can be justifiably proud of them. I too felt a great pride in them and a renewed confidence in these young adults, as I feel they are representative of the youth of our nation.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Chunko

Dear Sir:

Our class has recently discussed the Vietnam war moratorium which was held in October and will be held again this month. After prolonged discussion we have come to the decision that we are opposed to the moratorium idea and favor a complete and immediate military victory in South Vietnam.

Sincerely,

The Youth Class of
St. John's Evangelical
Lutheran Church
Maytown, Pa.

TWO ABOARD CARRIER

Fireman Apprentice Harry D. Connor III, USN, son of Harry D. Connor Jr., of 160 West High St., Maytown and Yeoman First Class Clarence E. Wagner Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Wagner of 715 E. Wood street, and husband of the former Miss Minerva J. Bulter of Square street, Mount Joy are serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Ticonderoga at Long Beach, Calif. The carrier is presently undergoing a major overhaul at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Ticonderoga, the first carrier to complete a fifth tour of duty in Vietnam waters, is being converted from an attack carrier to an anti-submarine warfare carrier in its new homeport of Long Beach.

"Tar" is a shortened form of tarpaulin. Sailors once wore broad-brimmed hats made of this material and received the name "tars" from this practice.
