BY NANCY NEWCOMER

Mr. and Mrs. John Sliver had as their guests on Easter Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams and family of Mt. Joy and Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Ruhl and family of Lititz.

Sgt. and Mrs. Peter Koder and children of Wilmington, North Carolina, spent the Easter week end with the former's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. W. Lester Koder, west Main street.

Mark Shearer, son of Mr. and Mr. Paul Shearer, was among the children celebrating birthdays on last Saturday's "Perky Place." Also attending the show telecast from the studio in Lancaster were his parents and two sisters, Joi and Brande. Mark was four years old on March 3rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rolfs and daughters Nancy and Susan and Miss Sharon Green spent Easter week end in West Point, New York, visiting the Rolfs' son, Buddy, who is attending West Point Academy. They enjoyed the festivities of Parents Plebes Week end which included a banquet, dress parade and open house of the entire campus. They stayed at the Thayer Hotel overlooking the Hudson river.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keener, have just returned from a two week vacation in Florida. They visited former Mt. Joy residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosser in Bradenton, and Mrs. Keener's father in Ft. Lauderdale.

Over The Back Fence

By Max Smith

SPRING has arrived and soon after Easter no doubt the weather conditions will make it possible for farmers and gardeners to do some of the early planting. This is very important to some crops to get them in the ground as early as possible. I'm thinking of such crops as spring oats, pasture seedings, and some vegetable crops. All of these will take advantage of the cooler weather with good moisture to make rapid growth and beat the hot weather of later this Spring. Garden crops such as onions, radish, peas, lettuce, and cabbage can stand cold weather and the sooner they are planted, when weather and soil conditions permit, the earlier the family will be able to enjoy fresh vegetables. Lawns that are to be seeded this Spring should also get attention as early as weather permits.

IN RECENT years I've heard some discussion about the value of barnyard manure with the question of whether or not it is worth hauling and spreading. This past winter the weather was not too good for regular hauling and spreading and as a result a large pile is waiting on them. I'm still of the opinion that this source of fertilizer is a valuable asset to any farmer and should be spread on the fields before plowing. The exact fertilizer content may vary but in all cases the organic matter is useful to maintain good soil structure. The adding of superphosphate to the manure will help make it a more balanced fertilizer.

THE BROADLEAF evergreens for landscaping are very attractive and should get some consideration for all homes and buildings. We are referring to azaleas, hollies, and rhododendrons; their favorite location is on the north side of a building where they get less sun both in summer and winter; they are acid-loving plants that do best in a well drained shady place; when making the plantings the topsoil should be mixed with 50% peat moss for the backfill; keep all forms of lime away from these plants. After the hole has been nearly filled, mulch with several inches of peat moss, rotted sawdust, or wood chips. Keep the area well watered during the first season after planting.

GROUND COVERS are worthy of more attention around many homes and industrial areas; they can be used effectively around trees, close to walls and foundations, and areas where plant materials are not normally planted. Many ground covers, such as Pachysandra, prefer shaded areas and will do well under trees where grass will not grow. Baltic Ivy and Myrtle (Periwinkle) do well in open sun or partial shade and can be used between foundation plantings. On steep slopes to control washing ground covers such as Crown Vetch or Honeysuckle can be planted and will eliminate the problem for years. Consider the use of these ground covers, not only for beauty, but also as a living mulch.

Control Your Lawn Weeds Now

Have you ever been beaten to the punch by a weed? Most home owners would have to answer yes to that.

More and more home owners are finding that chemical weed control in the early spring produces a thick, vigorous and beautiful lawn during the summer. Chemical weed control in the spring eliminates weed competition for plant food and water, allowing the grass to get a better start.

The proper application of weed control chemicals is important. According to the National Sprayer and Duster Association, there are several different types of equipment which can be used to rid the lawn of weeds.

For small and medium-sized lawns, the hose-end sprayer is an inexpensive but effective tool for overall treatment. For spot-spraying, the compressed air sprayer is ideal. If you have a large lawn, you may want to consider a power sprayer.

The Association states that lawn weed control is most effective when the chemical is sprayed in course droplets with the nozzle held 18 inches or less from the surface. Whatever sprayer best fits your needs, the important thing is that early weed control will give your lawn a good start this spring. And remember, National Lawn and Garden Week, March 20 to 26.
