

A Little Work Needed on the Foundation

EDITORIALS ---

On the eve of Memorial Day, America could do no better than to look to its ramparts of freedom.

No better way of paying honor to the fallen soldiers and the respected dead can be imagined in these troubled times.

The causes and influences which swirl around our heads are difficult to evaluate but the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion has offered an approach to opinion which is worthy of consideration.

The release is as follows:

a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution." Now fifty years later, the Reds are still "following the rule". As you read the list, stop and think about the present-day situation where you live—and all around our nation. We quote from the Red Rules: "A. Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.

"B. Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and obloquy.

4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government of extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Foment unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

7. By special argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues, honesty, sobriety, continence, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

"C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless."

"Take time to think seriously of the above and draw your own conclusions."

Whether or not you can believe the complete truth of the above, whether or not you believe the full impact of the message, or whether or not you care is beside the point.

The point is, that if you were deliberately attempting to undermine, to erode, to decay or to harm the strength of America, how better could you accomplish that aim than by using the tactics outlined above?

Truly, Memorial Day 1970 would be a day of heavenly rejoicing for the honored dead if America would on at least, on one day in the year, look its self squarely in the face.

TROUBLE IN THE GRANDSTAND

Audience participation shows have made their mark on TV. Some critics writhe in agony as these amateurs emerge from their seats to ham it up on camera. Hamming it up for TV is one thing, but crowds at sports events have been going one step beyond. There was a time when spectators came to applaud. Now they turn out to revile the athletes, vilify the officials, deface the stadium and obstruct the action with bottle barrages.

Three weeks ago, we called attention to a seemingly glaring case of mob action at the Pirates' opener in Pittsburgh. Subsequent events have knocked the Pittsburgh disturbance into the routine class. Similar outbreaks occurred at a Yankee doubleheader in New York and the Cubs' 1970 debut in Chicago. Baseball fans have no monopoly on contemptible conduct. Hockey spectators, never noted for decorum, grew wilder than ever during the Stanley Cup playoffs, showering the ice with debris and chanting obscenities in Boston, Chicago and New York. And Lew Alcindor, the brilliant new addition to pro basketball, took a merciless verbal lacing from Madison Square Garden vultures during the NBA playoffs.

Club officials cannot be accused of indifference to the situation. The Yankees have considered eliminating doubleheaders, which spur the most vicious types into action when customers depart early, leaving lower box seats vacant. The Cubs are installing a TV monitor system to spot trouble-making punks quickly. The Cubs also are erecting a screen along the bleacher wall to keep hellions from jumping onto the field and throwing refuse. At this rate, stadiums will take on the appearance of prison farms, which might make the culprits feel right at home.

Extra police, heavy wire screens and TV monitors are excellent precautionary measures, but they are unlikely to correct the warped behavior they are intended to combat. Says Lee McPhail, general manager of the Yankees, "It doesn't make any difference how many police are on hand. It is impossible to stop a mob."

The sports world is confronted with its share of bad actors, but things could be worse. The trouble makers have yet to burn down a stadium. Maybe that is because they never had the advantage of a college education.

OVER 40?

Over 40? Remember to ask your doctor about a procto as part of a regular health check up. According to the American Cancer Society, it's your smartest move against a form of cancer that is most common among both men and women.

Falls in the home are especially prevalent in the bathroom. To cut down on such hazards, the tub should be equipped with a rubber mat and well-mounted hand rails to grab hold of when getting in or out. These are especially important if older people are around.
