Musser. That was in the sixth inning and was the first score of the game. As things had been going, it looked as if that one run might be the ball game. But Garden Spot, too, was tricky and hard to handle as Donegal discovered in the bottom of the seventh. It was a virtual return from the grave effort as Ken Good singled and stole second. But that was not the story. After he reached third, the Garden Spot put on a text book squeeze play which worked to exact perfection. Only a good team, a well disciplined and heady ball club could have pulled it off. For Donegal, too, was atop the play, alert and set—but the run scored and the game went into extra innings. The eighth was a goose egg inning. In the half of the ninth, pitcher Sutter batting second in the regular order, was walked by G.S.'s Ansel. Musser laid down a beautiful bunt to put the winning run on second. Then, for Donegal fans, came the most beautiful hit of the day. Butch McCurdy, able second baseman, rapped a single into shallow right field near the foul line. That was all Sutter needed—he was home and the ball game was won. The title is the first Donegal has picked up since 1962. That year, also at Ephrata, the Tribe blanked highly-touted Penn Manor, 3 to 0. Colin Koser was the pitcher, hurling a three-hit game and fanning 13.

Trojan. During the middle innings of the game he was brilliant, using chiefly his fast ball as he set down the opposition 1, 2, 3. He worked hard, pitching with the rapidity of a machine geared for mass production. All the while his mates were aquiver with their solid support. However, there were few balls hit to the outfield. As the visiting team, Donegal was obliged to go full nine innings, finishing with the lights turned on, a two-hour session at Ephrata's Memorial Field. Donegal scored first, using their speed and baseball savvy to push John Shrum around the bases. The fleet little centerfielder virtually "stole" first when he simply outran a scratch single. Again using his speed, he stole second and then came racing home on a single by Donnie

The parade itself was highly complemented and went well in all details, beginning with a "run through" of a score or more of antique cars. Advance preparations for staging the parade has been neglected because there had been no chairman. But, at the last minute Geo. Nauman and a group of loyal citizens pooled their knowledge and efforts and dived into the big job of arrangements. Nauman did not ride in the parade, preferring to mingle with the crowds and to hear their reactions. "They were good," he reported. Other members of his committee were Robert Hoffmaster, Andrew Reymer, George Fitzkee, Ernie Wolgemuth, Bernie Heisey, Martin Brown, James Gingrich and James Heilig. Parade judges were four people from Lancaster, located on the reviewing stand at the Lancaster County Farmers National bank. Besides the winning float, which won $100, other prize winners were: Mount Joy Lions club, second, $75; Mount Joy Sportsmen, third, $50. Junior Division — Girl Scout Troop 35, first, $75; Boy Scout Troop 136, second, $50; and Young Democrats, third, $25. The winning float was decorated and put together Friday under the chairmanship of George Groff. The float theme was originated by Lewis G. P. Hart, former president of the Leisure club. The wagon upon which it was built and the tractor belonged to Abe Groff. General Grant was "played" by George Garrison and his aide was James Hockenberry. General Lee was Art Braun and his aide was Edgar Rinehart. Two years ago the Leisure Club came up with a first prize winner, using a "Whistler's Mother" idea and featuring Mrs. Heilig and Paul Hipple. Parade Chairman Nauman and his committee on Monday handed the Bulletin the following "word of thanks": "On behalf of the Mount Joy Memorial Day Parade committee, we wish to extend
