Last week the grim hand of death was laid upon the life of Vince Lombardi, age 57.

Until his death, perhaps, he was primarily a sports personality, a man who had made football his life's work.

But, in that arena of strenuous endeavor he became a legend, symbolizing some of the highest attributes associated with success, and leadership.

His personal success, his wins and losses, are a matter of record. But the real man which was Vince Lombardi is the total package of characteristics which made possible the wins.

Lombardi believed, first, in dedication — dedication to whatever task or whatever goal he had put his hand. He was a man who chose his causes and rooted himself in them with a tenacity which was unshakable.

He placed only his religion and his family above the cause which he chose.

His job and its responsibilities he placed next to God and family.

He is quoted as saying once, "Any man's finest hour is when he is working his heart out in a good cause and lies exhausted on the field of battle, victorious." And, that is the way he lived his own life.

But, with this dedication was a man of principle who knew that success comes only with discipline. Lombardi not only disciplined himself, he disciplined his football teams with a strong hand. "Freedom," he said, "is confused with license and license becomes anarchy. That's exactly what's happening." And, added, "Before you can do what you want to do, you have to accept duty."

Whether or not he thought he was a hero, whether or not he wanted to accept the fact that he became a hero, he did become one—in 57 short years.

He lamented the fact that there has been in our nation—and around the world—a lack of respect for authority and a turn toward an individual freedom which ignores disciplined responsibility.

Lombardi was a giant of a man. It would be a prayerful plea to hope that this country could in some way raise up hundreds of Lombardis to assume the leadership of this society.

Lombardi saw no difference in the color of a player's skin. He was not adverse to having a man excel, but he placed selflessness even higher. He was interested in group success.

Would that we could have such deeply dedicated leadership — such successful leadership — in a dozen critical areas.

Would that we could find Lombardis who could, like him, take sagging faltering, losing teams and causes, and with strong, viral, dedicated, and responsible and dynamic leadership pick them up to success.

Every town, every state and every nation needs men like Lombardi to place their hands upon stumbling causes and give them new life, new meaning and victory.

Thought of the Week --

Every human being has a work to carry on within, duties to perform abroad, influences to exert, which are peculiarly his, and which no conscience but his own can teach.

BIGGEST ROBBERY IN HISTORY

A million dollar robbery rightly stirs public wrath and the demand that the money be found and the culprits be punished. Yet Americans with savings in banks and in life insurance were robbed of 60 billion dollars last year because of inflation — 60 billion dollars which does no one any good, which can never provide capital for new business and new jobs, 60 billion which can never assure independence for the old people who saved it, 60 billion which can never build homes for young people, nor gifts to schools and hospitals — 60 evaporated Billions.

Who's to blame? All governments, federal and local, who spend more than they take in; all agencies who waste your money on boondoggling and vote-getting; all bureaus more interested in saving their jobs than in saving this country's solvency. And every American who wants more than he is willing to produce and pay for. Instead of writing your government to give you something, write them to save it.

ing more for the advancement of not only the Negro cause but the advancement of all of us in general, than Stokely Carmichael will ever do in his lifetime . . .

In a similar way, I keep thinking of all the conscientious and wonderful students who have kept out of trouble, who go to classes, who—when the uproar is going on—are in the library researching Elizabethan literature, or doing chemistry experiments, or something, and they don't get on the networks."

San Francisco State's outspoken president makes a point that is well taken.

Of the 15 mills real estate tax collection by the boro, 4 mills were used for garbage collection in 1969.

POINT WELL TAKEN

The president of San Francisco State College, Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, offers criticism of television programming that deserves most serious thought.

"The other day", says Dr. Hayakawa, "I saw, to my great horror, that Stokely Carmichael was given an hour interview on one of the networks. They had to go to Algiers to pick him up and interview him, when there are distinguished people like Andrew Brimmer, the first Negro to serve as a governor of the Federal Reserve Board — who in any one week are do-

To Hear People And Concerns

Ronald Reedy, field representative for Congressman Edwin D. Eshleman, will sit in the post offices of Ephrata and East Petersburg this coming Saturday, Sept. 12.

He will be at Ephrata from 9 to 10 a.m. and at East Petersburg from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

Anyone having any problem at all involving the federal government is invited to come in and discuss it with Reedy.
