

Life With The Rimples

Over The Back Fence

By Max Smith

THE SEASON for buying feeder cattle is at hand when many local feeders will be getting their steers for the winter feeding program. The moving and proper handling of these cattle should be done with loading chutes, sick pens, and head gates for treating animals. Plans for all of this equipment are available at our Extension Office. Many hours and many animals may be saved by the careful handling with the right kind of equipment. Local feeders as well as other livestock producers are urged to install the proper equipment for managing livestock with a minimum of stress and excitement.

For the second year in a row, the East Hempfield Twp. Exchange Club has won the "Big E" award. The highest honor bestowed upon a local club by national headquarters, the "Big E" award distinguishes the club and its members as having made outstanding contributions to the progress and growth of exchange. The Club president is Jerry Foster. Out of 1,100 clubs that participated in the national program, only 225 received the "Big E" award.

Seventeen-year-old Joseph Scheuchenzuber of St. Joseph street was honored recently by the Hempfield Sertoma Club for his heroic actions last December 23 which saved the lives of two friends while sledding near Landisville.

Young Scheuchenzuber was attending a sledding party at the home of Leo Hutton in Landisville last winter when two friends, Mary Heberlein, Cottage Avenue, Millersville, and Michael Sahd, sledded down a hill, missed a curve and went into a creek, both unconscious. Scheuchenzuber jumped into the icy water and pulled the young people to safety. They were revived and taken by ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital.

A plaque honoring the youth's heroic actions was presented to him at a dinner meeting held at the Mt. Joy Legion.

Miss Heberlein and Sahd were on hand as the honor was presented.

THE Prayer of the Week

The prayer this week is by Ronald Bridges: "Almighty God, our Father, fill us, engulf us, sweep us away with the tides of thy spirit, that we may live in thy righteousness. Search us out with all the hounds of heaven when we hide from thee in our respectability.

"Send legions of angels to beleaguer us when we make stand against thee in the round tower of our good works. Forgive us, Lord, when we are stupid and insist on doing that in thy name which is not thy work. Forgive us when we invoke thy name to assert our vanity and our prejudice.

"Forgive us, Lord, for our impatience with the movement of thy hand among events. Teach us to wait thy time and to move in the rhythm of thy purpose. Help us to stand rigid-inflexible against all evil, all cruelty, all hatred in the name of justice. But remembering our sins, we humbly ask, to know the mystery of mercy that we may yield a little in thy time and for the sake of thy son, Jesus Christ. Amen."

ENSILING high-moisture corn can provide an economical and convenient method of storing corn grain that is to be fed to most any kind of livestock. This method of storing makes artificial drying unnecessary, reduces the risk from mold and blight problems, gets the corn out of the field earlier, and is suitable for automatic handling and feeding. An extra silo is needed good enough to keep normal silage. The ground ear corn may be made into high-moisture corn and cob chop and stored in any good upright silo; however, it is recommended that high-moisture shelled corn be stored in air-tight structures. Corn to be made into high-moisture ear corn should be from 30 to 35% moisture, while shelled corn should run from 25 to 30% moisture. Many livestock producers have been successful with both kinds of high-moisture corn storage and is being accepted more each year.

THE PROPER storage of grain becomes a problem on some farms since large numbers of livestock requires increased storage capacity. When any type of grain is placed on the ground it will draw moisture from the earth unless there is a vapor barrier between the soil and the grain. We are aware that some concrete storage bins or floors have been placed on the soil without the vapor barrier such as plastic; when grain is held in these storage places for any length of time, it will mold because of the excess moisture. We have heard of false floors being placed on top of concrete to stop the moisture condition; however, this may become a rodent-infested space unless special care is used to keep them out.
