NANCY NEWCOMER

Two Mount Joy couples, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Stites and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pricio and former residents, Mr. & Mrs. Richard Stark now of Cheshire, Conn., attended the three day 1st Annual Shelter Haven Golf Classic in Stone Harbor, N. J., Oct. 23-24-25. Trophies and awards were won by all three men. Forty golfers in all attended with John Facenda, T.V. news commentator, as the master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Eshelman spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Williamsburg, Va. They enjoyed perfect fall weather and beautiful foliage while touring the historical and restored portion of Williamsburg. They also visited Jamestown and Carter's Plantation, one of the oldest plantations in the state, 12 miles south of Williamsburg. For an evening meal they dined at the Williamsburg Lodge.

Several local people were in the Perry County mountains over the week end. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Charles spent Friday and Saturday relaxing at a cabin with their family. While "spotting" deer on Friday evening they saw 40 deer. On Saturday they were visited by Mrs. Charles' son, Bob Zeller, who was spending the day hunting.

Renting a cabin near Blain in Perry County were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Braun, Mr. and Mrs. David Stauffer and Cloy Hoffer.

Also in the mountains this week end were a group of families from the Mount Joy Church of God and guests. They stayed Saturday night at Camp Yolijwa, located near Dublin Gap, Pa. There were 62 people who enjoyed good food, fun and meditation together. This trip was sponsored by the Ambassadors group, under the leadership of Charles Hershey.

The John A. Germer family report they will not be eating the traditional pumpkins this fall, but instead have been blessed with four 13-inch-long watermelons. It seems that last July their son planted some lone watermelon seeds and after three months they have actually produced, as a surprise to the entire family, especially five and a half year old Dougie. They are contemplating hollowing out a watermelon instead of a pumpkin for Halloween.

Misses Jessica and Judy Sheetz were guests over the week end of friends at Cabrini College at Devon; and on Saturday attended the Princeton-Penn football game in Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

To Represent E'town At Choral Festival

Elizabeth Rainbolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Rainbolt, Donegal road, has been named as one of eight members of the Elizabethtown College Concert Choir to represent the College at the Inter Collegiate Choir Festival, Oct. 29 - 31 at Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Miss Rainbolt is a soprano. The combined choir of students from Pennsylvania colleges, will hold practice sessions on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and then will give a public concert Saturday evening in the Theatre of the Performing Arts on the Wilkes College campus.

The Elizabethtown College group will be accompanied to Wilkes-Barre by their director, Harry L. Simmers.

Rev. and Mrs. Richard A. Todd and family of Pittsburgh were in Mount Joy this past week end. Rev. Todd, former pastor of the Presbyterian church spoke Sunday morning and evening at services commemorating the church's 130th anniversary.

If you have been on a vacation, a week end trip entertained out of town friends or had a party, call me with the information at 653-5701. Deadline for each week's paper is Monday noon.

Bank Announces

Two Promotions

Robert Y. Garrett, Jr., president of the Lancaster County Farmers National Bank, has announced the promotion of Charles A. Bender from credit officer to assistant vice president and commercial loan officer, and of Patrick Hugh McCaskey from management trainee to credit officer.

Bender began his banking career in 1957 with the Blue Ball National Bank and in 1962 joined the staff of County Farmers Bank as a note teller, after which he served as branch manager of the Bridgeport office, becoming credit officer of the bank in 1965.

A graduate of Terre Hill School, he attended Penn State University. He was graduated from the Pennsylvania Bankers Assoc. School of Banking at Bucknell University, as well as the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, and has taken courses with the American Institute of Banking and Dun and Bradstreet.

A member of the Lancaster County Bankers Association, A.I.B., Robert Morris Associates, Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, Lancaster Jaycees and the Lions Club, Bender is also on the finance & budget committee of the local United Campaign. He and his wife and daughter reside at 1561 Princess Anne Drive in Lancaster.

McCaskey, of 28 East Vine Street, Lancaster, a graduate of Franklin and Marshall college with the degree of A.B. in business administration, joined the bank's management training program in '67 after a tour of active duty with the National Guards. He has taken various courses and is presently attending, on a fellowship, the community Services Seminar at Lebanon Valley College. A member of the Lancaster County Bankers Association and of the American Institute of Banking, he is also a member of the Lancaster JC's and a past adviser of the local Junior Achievement organization.

McCaskey served as campaign manager for Mayor Thomas J. Monaghan in the 1969 election and for State Representative John C. Pitenger in 1968.

★ Eshleman

ed his opposition to the federal farm bill, which passed the house but was acted upon by the senate as it adjourned.

For him, he said, that is an easy vote because the people of Lancaster and Lebanon county, he feels, are against the program.

In response to Eshleman's invitation to "get it off your chest," the matter of Bible reading was discussed. "The public is pretty well agreed," he said but action in an amendment is tied up in committee and can not get started. Head of the committee, he said, is 82-year-old Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.).

The chairman's age led to a discussion of the seniority system in the Congress. Eshleman advocates that when a man becomes 65 years of age he must retire from government (Congress, state Government, courts) at the end of the term he is serving. "There is nothing wrong with the seniority system. It is the unlimited age which causes problems," he said.

"Does government have any idea about encouraging young farmers or helping the young farmers get started?" Apparently there is no specific program other than vocational agriculture and possibly Small Business Administration, which does stretch into some phase of agriculture. Eshleman commented, "The problem is that young people do not want to work 60 hours a week.

Several farmers commented about the taking of land for government purposes — specifically for highways — the owners then face the possibilities of accepting less than market value as settlement. "We can't seem to get market value," one farmer complained. Eshleman suggested the recourse of going to court but added that sometimes he felt accepting Board of Viewers figures might possibly net the land owned more money. Speaking of the new four-lane expressway recently opened, it was revealed that most farmers have not yet settled with the state.

Land use led to talk of long - range developments. "Planners," the congressman said, "looking to the 21st century, see all of this section of the country — Boston to Washington, D. C., and all through this area as metropolitan." The farmers found it hard to visualize that in 30 years their land would become urban and part of Megalopolis and doubted that all farms would disappear within 30 years.

Congress will reconvene on Nov. 16, the distinguished visitor said — to do work which should have been done in July and August. "Deliberation is fine and Congress is supposed to be deliberate. But, sometimes we overdo our deliberation," Eshleman said.

The congressman and Mrs. Eshleman were being taken on the tour through this area by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wivtill.

Over a cup of coffee served by Mrs. Garber, the Congressman concluded his visit and was off and on his way in less than an hour.
