EMMA H. CARBAUGH

Mrs. Emma Hornish Carbaugh, 71, who had been a resident of Mount Joy for 20 years, died Sunday evening, Nov. 29, at her home, on 33 River St., Cressona, Pa. She had been under the care of a physician.

Born in Schuylkill County, she was the wife of the late George J. Carbaugh, who died in February, 1969. She was a member of Trinity Evangelical Cong. Church, Mt. Joy.

Surviving include two sisters, Alma, wife of Calvin Brown, of Cressona, with whom she resided, and Mrs. Mary Smith, Greensburg, Pa.

J. LEHMAN SWARR

J. Lehman Swarr, 80, of 226 Park Ave., died unexpectedly at his home Saturday, Nov. 28, at 2:45 a.m.

He was born in Rapho Township, the son of the late J. Lehman Swarr and Lizzie Haverstick Swarr. His late wife, Edna Rohrer Swarr, died in 1953.

He was a member of the Mount Joy Mennonite Church and the Mount Joy Leisure Club. Most of his life he worked as a farmer. He also worked for the Rapho Township Department and the Masonic Homes in Elizabethtown.

Five sons survive: J. Howard of Lititz; B. Earl of Manheim R2; Lloyd R. of Mount Joy R1; Ralph R. of Champaign, Ill.; and Russel E., of Mount Joy R1. Also surviving are 16 grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and one brother, C. Irving Swarr of the Church of God home in Carlisle.

Services were held from the Mount Joy Mennonite Church Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the Eberle cemetery.

HENRY H. KOSER

Henry H. Koser, 96, of 94 Main St., Landisville, died at 11:20 a. m. Sunday Nov. 29, in the Lancaster General hospital after an illness of two weeks.

Husband of the late Annie B. Minnich Koser, who died in 1964, he was a well-known insurance man, surveyor and real estate broker and businessman.

Henry Koser was active throughout his life. As he put his philosophy of life, "The thing to do is to keep sweet, meet people on the same level you would like to be met and follow the Golden Rule."

A charter member of the Zion Lutheran church, Landisville, Koser was a county surveyor for 28 years, beginning his job in 1916 and ending it when the job was abolished by the Commonwealth.

Koser was also president of the Lititz Mutual Insurance Company, vice-president of both the Penn Charter Mutual Ins. Company and the Old Guard Fire Ins. Co., vice president of Union National Bank of Mount Joy, an honorary trustee of Elizabethtown College, and a member of Lancaster County Board of Viewers.

He was also a member of the Manheim Lodge 587 F&AM, the Lancaster Lodge of Perfection, the Harrisburg Consistory, Zombo Temple & Goodwin Council 19. Koser became a Mason in 1903 and was a past master of the Manheim Lodge.

Born in East Hempfield Twp., he was a son of the late Frederick Y. and Mary Hottenstein Koser, and resided in Landisville for 64 years.

While his wife was living they were considered to be one of the oldest married couples in the county, celebrating their 71st wedding anniversary before her death in 1964.

As another part of his accomplishments, Koser was one of three county residents honored in 1967 by the Bureau of Traffic Safety for driving since 1906 without an accident.

Surviving are three nephews.

Services were held from the Fred H. Koser funeral home, Landisville, Wednesday afternoon and burial was made in the Landisville Mennonite cemetery.

WILLIAM I. HARTMAN

William I. Hartman, 92, formerly of 219 Birchland Ave., died Sunday, Nov. 29 at 9:45 a.m. at the Fairview Manor Nursing Home, Columbia. He was the husband of Emma Barns Hartman, who died in 1966.

Born in Saville Twp., Perry County, he was the son of the late Henry E. and Eliza Rheem Hartman. He was a member of Glossbrenner United Methodist church, Mount Joy.

Hartman was a farmer all of his life in Perry County and moved to this area after his retirement 14 years ago.

He is survived by a daughter, Vera, wife of Max Rafensberger, Mount Joy, and two sons, Harold, of Reading and Glenn, Camp Hill, fifteen grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. A sister, Mrs. John Hubler, Altoona, also survives.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon from the Nissley funeral home and burial was made in the New Bloomfield Cemetery, New Bloomfield, Pa.

St. Marks to Hold Annual Meeting

The Annual Church Meeting (Congregational Meeting) of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, will take place at 6:30 p.m. Sunday evening, Dec. 6, in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Dessert will be served to all who come, which serving will be done by the Youth of the Church. Immediately thereafter the business of the church will be conducted. This consists primarily in the election of officers for 1971 and the discussion and adoption of the church's 1971 budget. Various commission chair men will outline plans and proposals for the new year, and the general areas of interest and concern will come under consideration.

For the first time this year St. Mark's church will have a unified budget and a one-pocket envelope. The proposed budget askings for 1971 are increased by almost $8,000. over 1970.

Rev. W. Richard Kohler will be chairman of the meeting. Members of the congregation are asked to respond to the call for a good representation.

around Elizabethtown's Center Square.

There are two opposing views on the subject.

One segment concerned with the appearance of the downtown area holds that parking spaces on the Square should be replaced by flower beds and trees, and that present overhead electric and telephone wires should be buried underground leading to more attractive metal light standards in lieu of the present wooden poles and strung wires.

They contend that the elimination of parking on the Square would automatically eliminate a traffic hazard—that of cars backing into traffic lanes. This view is endorsed by the state's Department of Highways.

The other group claims the proposed changeover would entail a substantial cost factor adding to already burdensome taxation.

They say that elimination of parking spaces on the Square would work hardship on downtown merchants already beset with problems of competing with area shopping centers where parking is free and plentiful.

They contend also that the flower beds on the Square would be impractical—an invitation to vandalism.

And then there are those who ask why only the downtown section is considered for beautification. They believe that if they're going to help pay the costs, then they in the farther removed main artery sections and residential areas should receive the same treatment.

The whole situation was brought to life when the Pennsylvania Power & Light Company replaced a number of poles and made additional provisions for a growing demand for heavier load factors.

Somewhat it turned out that the power company suffered some unjustified criticism, when actually it was endeavoring to assure more comprehensive service.

About the only reasonable way to come to a decision on what to do would be complete airing of all the ramifications of a beautification project, its costs and effects and, after all the citizens understand the many angles, any proposed change should be placed on the ballot as a referendum. It would then boil down to either "yes", we want to beautify, or "No", we want hold down costs.

The burden of decision should rest with the taxpayers who foot the bills.

Until everyone understands all the pros and cons and has an opportunity to voice his sentiments, P. P. & L., the Chamber of Commerce or Borough Council should not be in the line of fire.

THE SMALL TOWN

The small town, usually the most pleasant of places has traditionally been abandoned by its most promising young people.

This was dramatized some years back when President Johnson said that his home town, Johnson City, Texas, contained few young people under 21 years of age. "They have moved on," the President commented, "and now I see the men in their late sixties and seventies sitting around in the shade playing dominos."

Rural sociologists have long been concerned with this exodus. Talented young people often feel there is no opportunity in their home town. Or, as so many joke, "My home town is a nice place to be from."

The trend is a problem for small communities, many of which have much to offer young people. If the small town is to keep its useful and treasured plac in American society, some of its talented sons and daughters must be induced to stay at home and contribute to growth and progress.

Poached Halibut Glazed With Sunny Sauce

Snowy white North Pacific halibut steaks take on a sunny look when served with a sparkling orange sauce. Quick to prepare, the colorful sauce is made while the tender halibut steaks poach in a well-seasoned broth.

Genuine North Pacific halibut is a fine budget stretcher for both family and company meals. For a ladies' luncheon this delicately flavored fish is especially appealing in an airy mousse. If the gathering is large, you'll enjoy a halibut roast baked with herb or crab stuffing or, more simply, with a browned butter-lemon sauce.

Orange Glazed Halibut
2 pounds genuine North Pacific halibut steaks
Boiling, salted water
1 lemon slice
1 onion slice
Sprig parsley
¼ teaspoon tarragon
Orange Sauce

Place halibut in large skillet. Cover with boiling, salted water. Add lemon, onion, parsley and tarragon. Cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until halibut flakes when tested with a fork. Serve with hot Orange Sauce. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Orange Sauce:
Combine 4 teaspoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 dashes Tabasco and 1 tablespoon butter with 1½ cups orange juice and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook, stirring until thickened and clear. Add sections from 1 orange. Heat through.
