some of its lesser known ways to serve its people.

It is mandated that any child in Donegal district schools shall have a noon meal in the cafeterias. If a child is unable to pay the full price, there are provisions for making only part payment. If unable to pay anything, there are provision for free meals.

How are some of the vital needs of people served in our community? Do you know that there is a functioning organization in our midst which will, at any time give assistance of almost any kind to people who need it?

For cases of real need, there are dedicated people who will step in and lend a hand. They are organized and anxious to help people on a deeply Christian basis.

These are not all the ways people can find in our own community. In cases of emergency, it is hard to imagine the full scope of help that could and would be provided.

This is not to say that people or organizations are willing to be taken advantage of or to be asked unreasonable aid. But Mount Joy does have resources for proving for itself for its people which exceed the knowledge of most people within the community.

Dedicated people who care and who are willing to give of themselves are on the job.

These are some of the things which make Mount Joy a good place to live, to work and to raise a family.

PP&L Seeks To Sell Bonds

Pennsylvania Power and Light Company has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission for the sale by competitive bidding of $60 million of 30-year, first mortgage bonds, Robert R. Fortune, PP&L vice-president, financial, has announced. Scheduled bidding date for the sale will be used to repay bank loans incurred to meet construction expenditures.

The company's Construction costs for the three-year period 1971-1973 are estimated at over a half-billion dollars. Expenditures for 1970 amounted to about $160 million.

GINGERBREAD TREATS

- 1 (14 1/2-oz.) package gingerbread mix
- 2 (4 3/4-oz.) cans chicken spread
- 6 tablespoons applesauce
- 1/2 cup chopped toasted almonds

Prepare gingerbread mix according to package directions. Bake in a greased 12x9 pan at 350 degrees 20 minutes. Cut gingerbread in fourths. Slice each quarter lengthwise into layers about 1/2-inch thick. Using a 2- or 1-inch cookie cutter, cut out desired designs from the gingerbread. Combine chicken spread and applesauce. Spread on gingerbread and sprinkle with chopped almonds. Chill for 15 minutes before serving. Makes 24 Gingerbread Treats.
