Arrange Memorial Park Vesper Service

Mt. Joy Interchurch Council will sponsor Maranatha Productions Inc. in an outdoor Community Vesper Service at Memorial Park Sunday evening, June 27, at 7 p.m.

Maranatha Productions Inc. will present Outreach. Eleven college students motivated to reach out to their own "searching generation," believe that they have something of value to communicate in their music and message. Traveling extensively throughout eastern United States, they give concerts and interact with other students in high school assemblies, concert halls, coffee houses, many churches and over TV and radio.

Henry Harrison from Harlem, N. Y., is the soloist for the group. Educated at Philadelphia College of Bible, he is a licensed Baptist minister since the age of 16. Formerly he hosted his own local T.V. show called "Amen Time."

The other eight vocalists are area college students whose balanced blend of voices provide background for Harrison's solos and also sing their own selections. They have a polished program which carries the listener along, using various types of music to illustrate their point.

Bruce Burkholder, speaker for OUTREACH, is a graduate of Trinity College, Florida. Recently interviewed by "Decision Magazine," he already has established himself as a young man with a purpose. While attending college, he organized many huge youth crusades and decency rallies which were held in the Tampa Stadium.

Dan Wolgemuth of Lancaster, is a graduate of Lancaster School of the Bible, where he majored in music. Composer and arranger for OUTREACH, he also has done work for many other groups. Also actively engaged in contemporary music. Dan is the pianist for the group.

All the members of OUTREACH are involved in Maranatha Productions, Inc., a non-profit evangelical production company endeavoring to minister the Gospel of Jesus Christ through the tools of the media.

The public is invited to share in this service. Bring your chairs and blankets and enjoy an evening of fellowship with friends and neighbors.

In case of rain the service will be held in the Beahm Junior high school.

New Community Council Officers Are Inducted

Newly-elected officers of the Mount Joy Community Council were installed Wednesday evening, June 2, as the organization held its June meeting.

Mrs. Zink, who is an alternate member of the council representing the Business and Professional Women's club, succeeds George Nauman.

Officers are: Mrs. Franklin Zink, president; Mrs. Carl Hallgren, vice-president; Mrs. Lee Ellis, secretary, and William Eby, treasurer. Members of the Board of Directors include: James Heilig, 1 year; Mrs. Warren Foley, 2 years, and Al Newlin, 3 years.

During the business meeting, the council reviewed the 3-day Memorial Day activities and heard reports.

Heilig, finance chairman and Eby, treasurer, reported on the fiscal situation. They said that the organization's finances appear satisfactory.

Although expenses ran above the amount of cash directly contributed in advance to the council for the week-end, estimated a number of additional funds virtually are assured to more than cover the deficit. The situation is about as it has been in past years, it was pointed out.

Daughter Works for Nixon

When you heard the president of the United States answer a question last week on television by saying, "That is in Mrs. Franklin's department" did you know that he was speaking of a Hempfield high school graduate?

President Nixon had been asked by a news reporter what government is doing to bring more women into government.

What the chief of state was saying is that Barbara Hackman Franklin, a 1958 graduate of Hempfield, is working in a White House office, actively recruiting women for important places with the government.

And—by important places, the measure of important can be gauged by the fact that the jobs pay $25,000 and up a year.

Not only is Mrs. Franklin a former resident of the area but her mother, Mrs. Mayme Hackman, is a second grade teacher in Seiler elementary school.

Monday, as she sat in a circle with her young charges having a noon-time picnic on the edge of the playground, she beamed with pride as she talked about her daughter, who is a graduate of Penn State and of Harvard Business School.

"Yes," she answered, "Barbara has seen the President and has had her picture taken with him. But, he is a very busy man and she answers to Mr. Finch."

She does not live in the White House but is a resident of Washington since she took the appointment about two months ago.

Mrs. Franklin is a vice-president of the First National City Bank of New York, working in the government public relations area. It was because of her responsible bank position that she was asked to give at least six months' effort in the recruiting program.

She has been in banking in New York for about seven years.

Frustration

ough. Although all appeared to have good excuses for their absences, council reflected a pinching feeling of "lack of information" because department heads did not attend Monday's meeting. Absent were the mayor, the police chief and supervisor.

Fire Chief Frank Good presented his report for May and informed council that the 1949 Dodge pumper is out of service for an overhaul of its pump—at a "ballpark" estimate of $800 to $1,200. The chief said that the Friendship company will need help to meet the repair bill. The council promised none but did not say it would not. Rather, it again mulled the problem of what kind of contributions the rural areas surrounding the borough should be making to fire protection.
