ALUMINUM COOKWARE IS PERFECTLY SAFE

By Helen E. Bell

Aluminum cookware is perfectly safe. It doesn't cause cancer or any other disorder.

The health safety factor of aluminum has been scientifically proved and emphasized by medical and health protective agencies, such as U. S. Public Health Service and Federal Trade Commission.

Aluminum is present in our bodies no matter what cooking utensil we use. Aluminum is present, through nature, in many of the foods we eat in-

HEALTH PROBLEM

Overweight is the nation's number one health problem, reminds Mrs. Ruth J. Buck, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Penn State university. With an economy of plenty but a lack of physical activity, our society sets the stage in many cases of overweight. At each stage of the life cycle, everyone needs to learn and practice a way of life that will keep him within his ideal weight range.
