Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kline and daughters Beth, Susan, and Mary Lou spent a week camping at the head of the Kenogamissi Lake at Timmins, Ontario, Canada in June. They pitched their tent in a deserted area, 55 miles from the nearest town. While they caught pickerel and northern wall-eye bass. One morning they reported it was 20 degrees. They enjoyed a boat trip for nine miles down the Kenogamissi Lake. It was a special thrill to see moose roaming freely in the woods. They saw several gold, silver and granite mines and toured the McCauley mine at Schumacher, Ontario. En route home they viewed the home of the famous Dionne quintuplets near North Bay, Ontario, and visited Niagara Falls. Upon returning home, they repacked and left with Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Longenecker and daughter Debbie for four days at Ocean City, Maryland. It was the first ocean experience for the three girls. They stayed at the Wishing Well camp grounds and caught 20 flounder while fishing in the bay from their boat.

Freeman Naugle, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Barnhart, and Mrs. Willis Ament, accompanied the Kissinger Tour to Las Vegas, Nevada, where the Lions International convention was held June 22 to 25. The tour started via United Airlines Jet plane from Middletown. Sunday morning and returned to Middletown Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart spent Monday with a small plane trip of 220 miles to the Grand Canyon National park, part of which was in the Canyon between the North and South Rims. The vertical distance from the rim to the bed of the Colorado is one mile, and the average distance from North Rim to South Rim is 9 miles. The Aments spent the day on a trip to Disneyland, near Los Angeles while Mr. Naugle took the tour to Lake Mead & Fire.

The convention opened with a parade starting at 6 p.m. Tuesday. Over 100 persons, including marchers, passed out due to the heat. The average day temperature in Las Vegas is 110° but the humidity is only 6%.

The Lions convention ended Thursday noon, after the process of electing a Third Vice President was completed.

Several families spent the July 4th weekend enjoying the mountains, camping at Woodward Cave in Centre county. "Taint so! One of the 'older boys' recalls that many years ago—about 1898, when school was held in the building (maybe that is news to some people) an electrical storm came up and a lightning bolt struck the tower.

The teller of the story, who has a very keen mind for such details, recalls that he was in the first grade and that all the little children began to cry and cry. Finally the teacher sent them home for the rest of the day!

times—"It's a small world."

Barbara Thome said it again this week as she told us how last winter at Pocatello, Idaho, where she teaches German, a friend of hers was cleaning out a home he had bought.

One day Alois Maladenka, who teaches Russian, came to school and asked, "Barbara, what is the name of the town in Pennsylvania you call home?" "Mount Joy!"

"That's it — Mount Joy! I've found something in my new house which was made in Mount Joy."

It was a piece made by Rollman Mfg. Co., but no one knew exactly what it was, despite the fact he later brought it to the office and various people had a look.

One day a farm boy happened to be in the professor's office. "Prof. what are you doing with this cherry pitter?"

Then they knew!
