★ Of This and That

but all the plays and musicals are not "family" entertainment. So we were pleased to have the opportunity to see "Carousel," an acceptable story of the love of a young girl for the "barker" at a carousel in days gone by.

Added interest for us was the fact that two members of the cast were Mount Joy young men — Asher Halbleib and Charles Ashenfelter (stage name, Charles Aston.) Both gave very creditable performances, and we were proud of the "home town" talent!

The musical was presented "in the round," which means that the stage was in the center of the room, with seats on all four sides. The mechanics of such a production are always fascinating to us. The Ephrata group handled them very well.

The casting was excellent, the acting delightful, the costumes colorful, and most of the voices very good. It was a pleasant evening.

It may not be a popular thing to do, but we will mention that the summer is just half gone!

Jaunts to the seashore, the mountains or wherever, must be taken in the next six or seven weeks or not at all!

Midsummer has its own pleasures, however, not the least of which are the aforementioned tomatoes and corn, and green beans, melons and other fresh produce which grows so luxuriantly deliciously so luxuriantly deliciously.

With all the rainfall we've had, the grass and flowers are luxuriant, too, and look more like June than July!

Playground and swimming pool activities are at their peak.

Fortunately, we haven't had too much hot weather yet.

Midsummer is a good time to be alive!

Mail Method Change Coming

Something new is coming to the Mount Joy post office.

Although no date has been set, it is understood that within the immediate future, a big portion of mail originating in Mount Joy will be sorted in Lancaster by a sophisticated new machine which already is operating.

Thus, all mail, except local, which originates here will be bundled up in bulk and trucked to the Lancaster center, where the machines will take over, doing the cancelling, distributing and tying.

Local mail — that which originates here and does not leave the borough for delivery — however, will continue to be handled exclusively in the Mount Joy office.

Because mail will be handled in bulk here, should a patron inadvertently drop a local letter into the out-of-town slot, it will go to Lancaster, be sorted and come back the next day.

One of the changes in the traditional pattern of procedure will be that Mount Joy — as well as many many other smaller post offices, will lose its post mark on letters which go out of the in-city area.

The mail sorted at Lancaster simply will be cancelled with a stamp which will indicate that the mail originated in postal identification district 176, which is Lancaster.

Already a similar setup is operating for Elizabethtown. Mail there goes to Harrisburg for cancellation, sorting and dispatching.

The new sorting machine

Over The Back Fence

By Max Smith

IT'S SOIL testing time again for fields that are going into alfalfa early in August or into small grain this fall. The best time to apply the lime is to work it into the topsoil prior to the seeding of the crop. A complete soil test will reveal the amount of lime needed as well as the major fertilizer needs. Producers are urged to take the soil samples now so that time will be allowed to buy and apply the lime and fertilizer needs. Lime and fertilizer go together for maximum crop yields; a shortage of one of these soil elements will reduce crop yields.

THE HOT weather management of livestock is very important for efficient production and performance. Livestock housed in open buildings or out in pastures with plenty of shade and water will do a pretty good job of keeping comfortable. However, those that are housed in tight barns or in fattening pens may need some special attention. Cross ventilation is very important; electric fans that will draw the air through the barn or push air out over the livestock will help with the animals' comfort. Hogs will suffer most from extreme high temperatures and high humidity; in addition to the movement of air, a mist or fogging spray is very helpful. This spray of water is being used successfully in many hog operations. Special management in hot weather is very much in order.

THE LIGHTNING season is at hand and even though lightning may not strike in the same place twice, there are certain places where it is more likely to strike. We refer to a single tree out in the field, or near a wire fence. Records have shown that a single bolt of lightning may kill an entire herd of cattle under a tree, or lying along a wire fence. The most dangerous time for lightning to strike is just before the rain starts during an approaching storm. All members of the farm family should be warned to stay away from these two places before and during a storm; also livestock should not be permitted in these areas when a thunder storm is developing. To give additional protection the lightning rod system on barns and buildings should be inspected frequently. Be sure the system is grounded deep enough to be in moist soil; dry topsoil may not ground the bolt of lightning.

MOST GARDEN crops will respond to special care at this time of the year; I refer to shallow cultivation to kill the weeds and open the soil for faster water intake. Also, the mulching of such plants as tomatoes, eggplants, and peppers will conserve moisture and control weeds. This should be done soon in order to protect the plants during the heat of the summer. In garden soil that is not high in fertility, it might be beneficial to side-dress such crops as corn, tomatoes, and cucumbers with a complete garden fertilizer. Place it along the row about three inches from the plants and work into the topsoil; fertilize before mulching.

While you can purchase readymade blackboards, you can make one at home from a piece of hardboard by applying black or green chalkboard surfacing to it. Most hardware stores, paint dealers and lumber yards carry the surfacing material.
