Timely Tips for Women

Sheets — How Many Do You Need?

How many sheets do you need? Personal preference, laundry facilities, and how much use the sheets will get will determine this.

For an average family, in most cases, four sheets is a minimum number for each bed. This allows for two on the bed, with two available for change and laundering. If you have small children, an older person, or an invalid, you may feel you need more than two sheets for a change.

Researchers tell us that sheets wear longer if they're changed often and rotated in use. But most people agree that we don't need a dozen sheets for each bed, as was recommended in the past. Modern washers and dryers make laundering quick and easy. And then, too, storage can be a problem. But most homes have space available to store two sheets. If you plan to send sheets to a commercial laundry, you may need a larger supply because of pickup and delivery schedules.

Sometimes a third sheet is used on a bed to protect a blanket, for added warmth, or to prevent a colored blanket or quilt from showing through a light bedspread.

Getting The Best Buy In Bedding Requires Careful Shopping

Is there a "best buy" when you go shopping for sheets and pillowcases? No, if you buy the best quality you can afford, it will pay in appearance, wear and all-around satisfaction.

Beauty and practicality are prime considerations when shopping for sheets and pillowcases. Snowy white sheets are still the biggest sellers.

NEWLYWEDS NEED TO SET UP FAMILY BUSINESS MATTERS

Newlyweds must attend to family and personal business matters promptly. First, collect all your valuable papers and records from your parents' homes and set up your own system of safe keeping. Be sure to change the beneficiaries on any life insurance policies. Decide on single or joint ownership of items such as your car & bank accounts and have this changed at once. The bride should change her maiden name to her married name in her social security, driver's license, employment records, credit cards, membership cards, bank records, stocks and bonds, car title, identification cards, and other forms and records requiring the use of her name. The sooner this task is completed, the easier it will be to keep your family business affairs in order.
