Says Sufficient Oil for Winter

Despite record use of petroleum products by the military, and the threat of a severe gas shortage which will put additional pressure on heating oil, there is no cause for concern about heating oil supplies for the coming season, the Pennsylvania Petroleum association reports.

Oil dealers are extremely confident they can satisfy every customer's fuel needs no matter how severe the winter becomes, says Don Holtzman, president of Penna Petroleum association.

Furthermore, the recent petroleum finds in Alaska mean there will be more than sufficient fuel oil reserves for oil heating for many decades to come.
