Zone 7 Firemen Hold Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Zone 7 Firemen's association was held at the Salunga Fire company Tuesday, April 18. Forty men and eleven officers attended, representing 17 zone fire companies. 40 fires, 10 assists, 10 false alarms, and 1 accident wash-down were among the calls reported for the month.

One major subject discussed at the meeting was a letter from the county firemen's association requesting suggestions concerning the planning of the annual fire school at the new county fire school grounds. One suggestion voiced by many was that the annual weekend program should be held in September rather than in August. This change should probably ensure cooler weather for the program. It also would permit many people to attend who would have been vacationing in August. Another suggestion propounded was training programs for fire line officers: chiefs, captains, etc.

The proposed county-wide central alerting system for Lancaster county also was discussed at some length. All delegates who reported having discussed the subject at their company meetings voiced favorably opinions on the proposal. Zone 7 recently has installed its own central alerting system, which operates from a private home near Mount Joy. The system is working quite satisfactorily today, dispatching 16 fire companies and a forest fire crew, it was reported.

This system does nothing to lessen the zone's interest in a countywide alerting system, however. As the rapidly expanding and changing future unfolds, the need for a county-wide alerting system becomes increasingly apparent. By the time a county-wide alerting system is put into operation, Zone 7 will probably use it immediately as a back-up system, and, someday for full-time service. A resolution was passed unanimously supporting the county association in its efforts to secure a county-wide central dispatching system for fire companies.

The next meeting will be held at the Maytown Fire Company on May 16th.

The Cocktail Soup

Cold soups are a wonderful basis for hot weather meals. Usually a cold soup is served in a glass bowl or cup placed on a bed of chopped ice. The appearance of this appetizer is appealing to almost all and when it's teamed with a fruit salad and hot french bread, it becomes an exquisite lunch.

An unusual variation of this theme is Chilled Sardine Soup served from an ice-bucket into well chilled old fashion glasses containing colorful swizzle sticks.

Chilled Sardine Soup

1 medium onion, sliced	1/2 soup can of water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine	1/2 teaspoon salt
2 medium potatoes, peeled	2 cans (3 1/2 oz. each) Maine Sardines
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) bouillon	1 1/2 cups rich milk or half and half
Chopped scallions or green peppers

Saute onion in butter in saucepan until soft. Add potatoes, bouillon, water and salt. Cover and cook 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender.

Blend potatoes, broth and sardines, about half a blender full at a time until smooth. Stir in milk and chill. Serve topped with chopped scallions or green pepper. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

And if you like the convenience and casualness of the cold soup and wish to become the Pearl Mesta of the Cocktail hour, then add one more recipe to your list. Borscht with Maine Sardines.

Borscht With Maine Sardines

1 jar (32-ounces) prepared borscht	2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 can (3 1/2 ounces) Maine sardines in oil, drained	1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
	1/2 cup sour cream

Strain vegetables from borscht and put into a blender container. Add sardines and a little liquid from borscht and blend until smooth. Add to remaining borscht liquid with lemon juice and horseradish and stir until blended and smooth. Chill. Serve well chilled in an ice-bucket. Top with a spoon of sour cream on each serving. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
