SUNDAY AND SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Dr. David Schlosser

To Co-chairman Drive for Funds

Warren H. Foley, 12 West Donegal street, has been named co-chairman for the fund raising program for the new medical facility of the Northwest Lancaster County Medical association.

Serving with him is Robert L. Mareira of Elizabethtown.

Foley, a member of the Mt. Joy borough council is general manager of the McFarland company of Harrisburg, a division of the Maple Press of York. He is a native of Hershey and his career has been in graphic arts. He presently is vice-chairman of the council and is an elder in the Mt. Joy Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. Foley have three daughters—Emily Lou, at home; Lora Lee, a teacher in Philadelphia, and Mrs. Jno. Gohn, Marietta.

The proposed $300,000 center would be located on the Colebrook road, just north of Route 230.

Rotarians Buy All of Playhouse

Rotarians, guests and friends will be attending the Tuesday, July 25 performance at Mt. Gretna Playhouse of "Blithe Spirit."

The Rotary club has "bought the house" for the performance and is offering tickets to the general public. They are on sale at the banks, from Rotarians and at the Newlin Interior store.

the two of them to be buried!

As for the Vanderbilt Mansion, it almost defies description. It is huge, unbelievably elegant in furnishings and decorations. Imported woods, imported tapestries, imported furniture — these gave it beauty, elegance, grandeur. It is said that the decorations and furnishings in the library alone cost $500,000! It is a tangible reminder of days of wealth in this country which will never come again.

But we missed the warmth and the charm of Hyde Park! The Vanderbilt Mansion was almost an Old World castle—but not a HOME!

As for the flood: it left sad memories behind: the memory of angry, rushing waters in Sico Park, at the eastern edge of town, along the Mannheim road at the end of Barbara street, and in many other areas; the look of dazed disbelief in the eyes of the Marietta evacuees at the Riverview elementary school — the long rows of cots; the sound of the sump pump taking the 16 inches of water out of the pit beneath our big newspaper press; the sight of hoses out of basement windows all over town, with water running . . . running . . .

But then there are happy memories, too, of the unbelievable outpouring of love and concern by neighbors, friends, townspeople and organizations on behalf of the flood victims. The truckloads of clothing & food that appeared almost instantly we will never forget!

Perhaps the flood's greatest lesson was to show us that the "brotherhood of man" is not just an idle phrase but a reality, even in these days which many label "cold and materialistic."

This is the Time For Brownouts

This is the dimming of the Age of Aquarius—Yes, that's right—dimming of the Age of Aquarius.

This is the age of the brownout, a planned reduction in electrical voltage to a given area for a specified period of time—usually three or four hours. (A blackout is a total loss of power.)

What does a brownout mean to you and to your home? Leslie Paige of Whirlpool Corp. has the answers.

First, it means inconvenience. When notified of a brownout (usually by newspaper, radio or TV), avoid using electrical appliances. Wait a few hours before baking cookies, vacuuming or washing clothes.

Second, it can mean permanent damage to appliances with continuously operating motors. If your house normally receives 115 volts, it will receive about 104 volts—a reduction of about 8 percent—during a brownout. This amount should not cause permanent appliance damage.

Problems occur, however, because some houses, due to location at the end of a power line for instance, may not receive 115 volts under normal conditions. And when voltage goes below 100, trouble may occur.

But don't despair. There is a way to tell if the voltage in your home goes below the accepted level. Just watch television.

Under reduced voltage, the picture of a correctly operating television set will suddenly shrink. You will notice formation of a black line 1/4 to one inch wide around the screen (under extreme conditions, the line will get larger and then the picture will disappear). This does not harm the television set. But, formation is a signal to turn off the

Leisure Club Holds Dinner

The Mount Joy Leisure Club met Monday, July 10th, with a covered dish dinner for the annual picnic on the lawn at Sportsmen's Farm. Approximately 70 members were present.

Two new members have joined the club, Mrs. Ruth Holsinger and Mary Lehman.

Four visitors were present, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stahl of Duncannon, Mary Lehman and Raymond Lauer. The club donated $10 to the Dick Bell fund. A bus trip is planned touring Lancaster County on August 16.

DISSOLVE

Do you sometimes feel that your life is a continuing process of problem solving? Even when you find the solution to one problem, another presents itself. In the field of human dynamics, it is often more important to find the cause than to solve each problem separately. It is true that we are often our own worst enemy. If you have any ideal or goal you wish to achieve, look carefully to see if you are throwing up your own roadblock. Your shortcut to success is to dissolve self defeat!

GOODNESS

A fact that is easily discerned is that there is much goodness in people if we are willing to look for it. Once we observe an act of generosity, and expression of compassion and caring, we should remember it when someone is presenting the thought that human beings are bad and getting worse all the time. Of course, there is much room for improvement and we all need to grow, but let's not give up. To believe in goodness, to look for it in ourselves and others, is to see it turning up at the most unexpected times and places.

Virginia Dare was the first child born in America of English parents.

Electric sewing machines have been used since 1889!

air conditioner, refrigerator, freezer, ice maker and other appliances with continuously operating motors. Food remains safe for several hours if the door is kept closed.

If these appliances continue to operate under dangerously low voltage, the motor slows down, overheats and wiring insulation can burn away. Under severe conditions, the motor can "burn out."

Electric utility companies assure us that brownouts are limited to certain areas of the country and will not be with us forever. But while there is a dimming of the Age of Aquarius, be extra careful and concerned about your appliances.

Phone Cos. Merge

Merger of the Columbia-United and Peoples - United Telephone companies into The United Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has been approved by the Pennsylvania Utility commission.

Upon consummation of the merger later this year, United will operate some 270,000 telephones in 24 counties of the state and have a combined plant investment approaching $150 million. The approximately 1650 employees will share an annual payroll exceeding 12 million.

The Plan of Merger was filed with the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission on March 31, after the plan was by the shareowners & Boards of Directors of all three companies. The companies are members of the United Telephone System.

The Columbia-United Telephone Company, in Lancaster county serving 6,000 telephones, joined the United System in 1966 through an exchange of common stock with United Telecommunications, Inc., parent organization of the United System.

The Prayer of the Week

The evening prayer this week is by W. E. Orchard:

"Lord of the night as of the day, we thank Thee that the gathering darkness so often speaks to us of Thee. It is when the light of day is done that we often grow more conscious of the purer light that shines within. The closing hours of day beget in us a tenderness towards eternal things. A feeling of homelessness moves our feet to seek for Thee, our only rest. The memory of unnoticed sins comes back to mind, and we long for nobler life. We become like the children who put off their garments gladly, who wait to hear again some oft-told tale, who feel they must unburden their hearts to some listening and forgiving heart. Be near us now, O Father. Amen."

SIGHT

It is a literal fact that we may have perfectly healthy eyes, but fail to see. Take the time to look around you and see how many things you have allowed to go unnoticed. The most common object can become a thing of beauty when studied in detail, while we are thinking of all the component parts that went into its creation. There is nothing wrong with dreaming of faraway beautiful places, but when we have a highly developed sense of sight we can look up, look around, and view a thousand wonders of the world right where we are.

UNIVERSE

The dictionary devines universe as "All created things viewed as constituting one system; the creation, the cosmos, including all that is." This means we are a part of the universe. If the universe has meaning, our life has meaning. It is reassuring to note how many people in divergent fields (including science) are expressing their firm conviction that there's an intelligent direction in the universe and we are all here for a purpose. You have an important place in the universe. Remember this, and your whole life will be filled with meaning.

A new method of soaking up oil slicks and converting them into useful material has been patented by a Hazelton, Pa., chemical engineer. In addition to the interesting aspects of the invention, this system will also get rid of used tires. The Nalence brothers tell us that this is a growing problem. Well worn out tires are shredded to make a mixture that absorbs oil and forms a jelly-like mass. This mass can be converted into a material similar to asphalt for making roads, floors, roofing and other products. There is always something new and exciting being developed.
