Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hasinger and children Steve and Joani, recently returned from a three-week trip thru the west. They traveled in their motor home, camping along the way. Also accompanying them were Mrs. Hasinger's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rushton and children, Diane, Linda and Randy.

They saw many interesting sights, such as the Corn Palace in Mitchell, South Dakota, and the beautiful mountains in the Bad Lands of South Dakota. In the Black Hills they saw Mount Rushmore, Custer National Park where great herds of buffalo roam freely and enjoyed the largest rodeo in South Dakota at Belle Fourche. Cowboys from all the western states were competing for honors & cash prizes.

Traveling into Yellowstone National Park the elevation was 11,000 feet with snow covering everything, making it a winter wonderland in July. They report there are very few bears left in the park but viewed lots of moose throughout the area. They drove through the Grand Tetons in Wyoming and visited the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City Utah. They traveled many miles through a large Navajo reservation and Monument alley which is inhabited by the Navajo Indians.

In Arizona they saw the Grand Canyon and drove around the rim of the canyon enjoying the breathtaking view. In the southern part of Colorado they visited the Mesa Verde, which means "green table" and is a former residence of the Pueblo Indians dating back to 500 or 1200 AD. The Indians built whole cities in the sides of cliffs. They left these dwellings about 700 years ago and were only discovered in the late 1800's.

Enroute home they visited the Oral Roberts university in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sjaeffler returned Wednesday, July 26, from a relaxing 10-day Caribbean cruise. They left New York City on the Rotterdam and headed south. They lived on the ship and visited the islands of Puerto Rico, St. Maarten, St. Thomas and St.

John.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bitzer and daughter, Becky, left on July 22 and returned 2 days later from Illinois where they visited family and friends. They flew from Harrisburg to Chicago and rented a car for a drive to Lexington, Illinois. They visited with Mr. Bitzer's brother, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Dady, his mother, Mrs. Wayne L. Biter and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hayworth.

It's a small world — John Helmstaedter and Cliff Betty are spending the summer with John Helmstaedter's sister in Pompano Beach, Fla. The two boys left the last week of June and enjoyed some sightseeing en route. After having been gone several days John's mother, Mrs. Virginia Helfstaedter, received a call from Lloyd H. Doutrich in Vero Beach, Fla., reporting that he had found a wallet belonging to her son. After much "red tape" he sent the wallet, insured, to the very grateful owner in Pompano Beach. The coincidence is, that Mr. Doutrich's son-in-law was also with him at the time the wallet was found, and he is Sam Frey from Mt. Joy. Imagine finding a wallet in Vero Beach, Florida belonging to a person in your son-in-law's hometown!

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coover and children Kerri and Joe, and a friend, Tom Bair, spent last week vacationing in Cowan's Gap State Park. They rented a cottage and enjoyed swimming, boating & fishing. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Contres and family from York joined them for the week. Cowan's Gap is located on the border of Fulton and Franklin counties.

Rev. and Mr. W. Richard Kohler, 35 East Main St., Mt. Joy — accompanied by their two children, Michael and Jennifer, recently returned from a delightful two and a half week camping trip thru much of Atlantic Canada. By Journey's End, the Kohlers had logged 3,700 miles.

The vacation began with a Schuman - Ebaugh family reunion over the Fourth of July at Endwell, N. Y., near Binghamton. From there the Kohlers proceeded northward, making Montreal their first stop and Quebec City their second. Halfway up the Gaspé Peninsula along the lovely St. Lawrence River, the family turned eastward and then southward into New Brunswick where several days traveling took them through beautiful countryside to Fundy National Park and the famous rock formations at Hopewell Cape. It was there that they experienced the 80% eclipse of the sun in what was certainly a very eerie setting.

Then it was on to Moncton to see the tidal bore (the twice daily reversal of the tidal waters) before making the interesting Ferry Crossing at Cape Tormentine from Prince Edward Island. The stay on the island was unforgettable what with driving through lovely farmland, bathing on the sand dunes of Cavendish and savoring lobster served up in the basement of St. Ann's church. Returning to the mainland, the roads turned southward into Nova Scotia. Two days were spent in Antigonish, the site of the Highland Games, an annual festival perpetuated by the Scottish descendants of that area. Bagpipe bands and beautiful tartans added to the festival. Mike and his father took an abbreviated trip onto Cape Breton Island while Jenni and her mother recovered from a virus bug.

The last lap of the journey through Nova Scotia took the Kohlers to the southern area around the lovely harbor city of Halifax and the quaint and colorful fishing villages at and near Peggy's Cove. The return trip went through Saint John's, New Brunswick — crossing the U.S. border at Calais, Maine and continuing along the entire length of U. S. #1 thru the scenic towns of the Maine coastline. The last evening out was spent in a camp ground in New Hampshire. The entire trip was made under pleasant skies with wonderful cool temperatures. Nature's beauties combined with History's numerous landmarks and life's many fine people to people confrontations to make this a very enjoyable vacation.
